Ike Backs Plan for Instant Retaliation if U.S. Bombed

Bus Service Possible Here Before April

Springfield Operator Seeks Cooperation of Marion Businessmen

A proposal to start a new bus company in Marion was made by officials of the Springfield City Lines, Inc., at a meeting held today in Mayor Harold F. Robinson's office.

Chester E. Baker, company president, outlined the plan to city officials, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, local bus drivers union, and City Council.

Briefly, he proposed that service would be started here "possibly by April 1" if local businessmen would assist the company in getting started by purchase of a total of $50 worth of bus tokens a day.

Handed to Buyers

These tokens could be used by the merchants as an advertising media and could be handed out to patrons in their stores with purchase of a certain amount of merchandise, he explained.

The company would also expect cooperation of the businessmen in "selling" bus service to Marion residents to build up the "bus riding habit," or if no such habit now exists to create one, Baker explained.

He pointed out similar plans have been placed in operation in other cities and have "proven very successful both for the bus company and the merchants participating."

Estimating the new bus company would lose approximately $100 a day until number of bus riders could be increased. Baker said the Springfield City Lines is willing to risk a $50 a day loss for a period of 90 days if local groups are interested enough to share the loss for the same period.

If the merchants or industries or civic groups are not interested in having bus service in the city in some such tangible way, then he and his company are not interested in attempting to start a new company here, Baker told those attending the meeting.

Inconceivable

Prior to making his offer he said he could not conceive of a city the size of Marion being without mass transportation. He said other cities of similar size have lost bus companies, but usually some new company soon starts and restores service.

Calling mass transportation "the life blood of a community" Baker said he knew of no group which would be more interested in seeing bus service restored than the retail merchants "because adequate bus service is needed to bring customers into their stores.

"If we didn't feel that Marion could support a bus company and that we could make money, we wouldn't be here today," Baker said.

He further stated that in his opinion unless a private company came into the city, the municipal government might eventually have to provide mass transportation service.

He also felt that right now is a good time to find out whether or not Marionites really want good,

TO PROBE McCARTHY-ARMY FIGHT. Senator Joseph McCarthy (right) and Senator Karl Mundt (R) of South Dakota, tell newsmen that a full public investigation will be held into McCarthy's controversy with the Army, with sworn testimony by all witnesses. McCarthy turned his chairmanship over to Mundt for the probe and a special staff will replace aides involved in the dispute.

Backs Secretary

Stevens Truthful, Eisenhower Insists

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he has full confidence in the honor and integrity of Secretary of the Army Stevens and stands behind him.

His statement was in response to news conference questions about the controversy between Stevens and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

If he didn't have confidence in Stevens' integrity, the President said, Stevens wouldn't be holding the job he does.

Stands Behind Stevens

Eisenhower said it may turn out that Stevens has made some mistakes, but he added that so far as the Secretary's integrity and honor are concerned he stands behind Stevens.

The question of who is telling the truth looms as the central issue for the developing Senate inquiry into the row between McCarthy and his chief counsel, Roy Cohn, on the one hand and Army officials on the other.

All the principals are expected to be called to testify under oath when the inquiry gets underway, probably late next week.

McCarthy said today he was willing to let Army lawyers cross-examine him.

Willing To Be Quizzed

"The Army should be entitled to have a lawyer cross-examine me and all adverse witnesses," McCarthy said in an interview.

The President's remarks were touched off by a question as to what effect the controversy between McCarthy and Stevens may be having on Army morale.

The question was pinned to the report the Army recently made public, declaring that McCarthy and Cohn, chief counsel for McCarthy's Senate investigating subcommittee, sought special favors for David Schine in the Army.

Schine, 26-year-old wealthy New Yorker, is a former unpaid consultant to the McCarthy subcommittee. He was drafted last November.

The questioner also took note of a series of memoranda made public by McCarthy. They included a charge that Stevens and an aide

23 Fishermen Suffer Burns

Japs Exposed to H-Blast Offered U.S. Medical Aid

By JIM BECKER

TOKYO (AP)—The United States today offered top-flight American medical aid to 23 Japanese fishermen burned and blistered by ashes from a supersecret U.S. test blast in the Pacific.

U.S. Ambassador John Allison also proposed a joint Japanese-American investigation of the March 1 incident in the Bikini-Eniwetok test region.

Only One Critical

Only one of the 23 crewmen was considered in dangerous condition when their boat arrived Sunday but all had entered a hospital today. Three were added to the serious list but doctors said they expect all 23 will live.

The intensity of their burns—skin blackening and hair falling out—and their story of the blast stirred speculation that the March 1 test may have been a thermonuclear (probably hydrogen) explosion. The crewmen's reports indicate they were about 80 miles from the blast center.

The U.S Embassy said a team of three American and three Japanese doctors associated with the atomic bomb casualty commission in the atom-bombed city of Hiroshima will treat the victims.

First Official Statement

Allison's offer was the first official comment from the United States on the incident.

Kyodo news agency said the Japanese Foreign Office intends to take up the matter with the United States officially.

Japanese officials say they will ask compensation for the victims.

In Washington, Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said it was possible the fishermen were spying but said he has no official report.

"We don't know whether the fishermen were in the area deliberately or accidentally," he said.

Believed H-Bomb

One nuclear specialist, Prof. Mitsuo Takeya of Rikkyo University, said he believes the blast may have been a "hydrogen-caliber bomb," basing his theory on the belief a regular atomic bomb could not have hurled the radioactive debris 80 miles. He said the ashes were pulverized coral.

The United States has said only that the March 1 explosion was an "atomic device." In 1952, it said a blast which destroyed a coral island was a "thermonuclear device"—undoubtedly a hydrogen explosion.

Latest H-Bomb Blast Terrific, Time Declares

NEW YORK (AP)—Time magazine today reported the latest U. S. thermonuclear explosion went off March 1 with a blast probably 500 times greater than the Hiroshima atomic bomb.

The force of the explosion, Time said, completely surprised atomic scientists working on the project at the U. S. proving grounds in the Marshall Islands.

Twenty-eight U. S. observers and 236 island natives, thought to have been evacuated to a safe distance, were showered with radioactive particles, Time reported. Their exposure was 10 times greater than the usual safety limit, the magazine said, but the Atomic Energy Commission announced there had been no burns.

Time said calculation of the blast force is still incomplete but was so great that the AEC was forced to reclassify a test on Nov. 1, 1952, as a "misfire."

Force of the "misfire" was "awesome enough," Time added, and gave these details on that test:

The blast was 250 times as great as the Hiroshima bomb;

Its fire ball measured 28 miles in diameter;

The mushroom cloud climbed 90,000 feet into the stratosphere and an observer plane 50 miles away, flying at 30,000 feet, had to run away to avoid being caught under the mushroom's lip.

Time said the latest test may have sent its radioactive cloud higher than 20 miles. The blast made the sky orange and shook buildings several hundred miles away on Kwajalein Island Time reported.

$13,000 Loss Reported After Fire at Nevada

NEVADA — A $13,000 blaze swept through a large barn and adjoining shed at the W. P. Passet farm, one mile west of here, this morning and destroyed some 3,000 young turkeys along with tons of grain and farm machinery.

Nevada Fire Chief Cecil Heinlen said the fire apparently started with a spark from a stoker furnace in the farm building.

The village's volunteer fire department was summoned about 7:30 a.m. to the Passet farm which is occupied by Tom Bell. The blaze had made considerable progress by the time the firemen arrived and swept rapidly through the wood shavings and hay in the barn.

Destroyed in the fire were: 3,000 two-week old turkeys, 20 tons of hay, 12 tons of coal, eight and a half tons of fertilizer, 40 tons of baled wooden shavings, several pieces of farm machinery and equipment, numerous small tools and six tons of turkey feed.

The volunteer firemen, who fought the flames for about three hours, were able to save several nearby buildings which were threatened at various times. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Revised Tax Bill Defended By President

Democratic Charges Of Inequitable Relief Denied at Press Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that congressional Democrats are in error in contending that the administration's new tax bill does not give a fair share of relief to those in the lower income brackets. He commented at a news conference as the House headed into a battle over a Democratic drive for new income tax cuts for everybody.

Up for debate was a giant, 875-page bill overhauling almost all tax laws and providing about $1,397,000,000 in revenue reductions the first year. The vote is scheduled tomorrow.

Key Issue

The overshadowing issue is a Democratic move to tack onto this bill a $100 increase in individual income tax exemptions for each taxpayer and each dependent—a further tax cut of $2,400,000,000 a year, strongly opposed by President Eisenhower.

Rep. Mills (D-Ark), chairman of the conference of House Democrats and a veteran member of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, said "I feel certain the Democratic motion will pass." Rep. Priest (D-Tenn), assistant Democratic whip, foresaw "a strong likelihood" that Democrats would win by a very close vote.

But House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) just as staunchly predicted Republicans would beat the Democratic move and the House would pass the GOP-sponsored revision bill as it now stands. Martin said the margin would be "very comfortable." And House Republican Leader Halleck of Indiana vowed: "The Democratic motion will not pass."

Neither Side Confident

Privately, Republicans on the whole appeared slightly more confident than Democrats, but there was plenty of nervousness on both sides over the outcome of the issue in this congressional election year.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey appears before the Senate Finance Committee today to oppose another tax cutting bill, one that would trim to 10 per cent

AEC Committee Denies Secret Data Missing

Senate-House Group Ends Investigation; No Laxity Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Cole (R-NY) of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee says no "top secret" documents are missing at the Hanford atomic energy plant.

And no documents are unaccounted for "under circumstances which indicate theft or removal for purposes of subversion or espionage," he says.

He made public late yesterday a letter he has sent to Rep. Pelly (R-Wash), who last week wrote the committee he had heard that classified documents were missing at the vast atomic energy installation in Washington state.

The letter was released after the committee had received closed-door testimony from three officials of the Atomic Energy Commission—David F. Shaw, manager of the Hanford operations office; K. D. Nichols, AEC general manager; and John Waters, AEC director of security.

Cole said the incident was closed as far as he was concerned.

Pelly told reporters he had "complete confidence" in the committee.

Among the more than 600,000 classified documents on record at Hanford having a classification lower than top secret, Cole said, "some are unaccounted for, representing an infinitesimal fraction of the total."

"In view of the number of documents at Hanford and the fact that thousands of them are in daily use and may be transferred from office to office frequently, the percentage of documents unaccounted for is impressively low," he said.

Big Victory Near

French Still Retain Indochina Fortress

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — French Union defenders of Dien Bien Phu, scything down attack after attack, appeared today to be well on the road to a big victory over the Communist-led Vietminh.

U. S. Arms Pay Off

Rebel artillery opened another bombardment in the five-day battle for the strategic plain in the mountains of northwest Indochina and it may be the prelude to another mass infantry attack tonight. Key French positions were the targets of 105 and 75 millimeter guns.

But American-supplied French guns responded shot for shot and the mass attacks so far—according to a conservative French Army estimate—have cost the rebels 3,000 killed. Along with those killed, it is estimated 9,000 have been wounded.

That makes 12,000 men out of action—the strength of a Vietminh division—and about a fourth of the total forces Vietminh Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap has committed to the battle.

Victory Scented

The garrison—Frenchmen, Foreign Legionnaires, Algerians, Moroccans, Vietnamese and friendly Thai tribesmen—was outnumbered about 4-to-1 at the outset Friday. It has suffered losses described as appreciable, but is receiving reinforcements by air.

It is too early to say the victory has been won. But, barring an unforeseen assault ending disastrously for the French, there was more than a good chance that the Vietminh were not going to succeed in smashing this French stronghold in the Thai tribal country at the border of Viet Nam and Laos.

The French took advantage of

Cold Snap Has Dixie Shivering

Mercury Skids to 28 in Georgia, 33 in Florida

By The Associated Press

Cold air from the Midwest moved into Dixie today and sent temperatures to freezing and below in the southeastern section of the country.

It was a chilly 28 above at Augusta, Ga.—two degrees colder than at Bismarck, N. D. Readings near freezing and below were reported in parts of the Carolinas, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee.

An early morning low of 33 was reported at Jacksonville, Fla., Atlanta, Chattanooga and Macon, Ga.

Generally pleasant late winter weather was reported in most parts of the country.

Below - freezing temperatures were reported in the northern border states from Montana eastward and southward through the Great Lakes region and the Ohio Valley.

Stevedores Clash On New York Piers

NEW YORK (AP)—Rival AFL and independent longshoremen mixed it up in a lively free-for-all fight for about 10 minutes on the Brooklyn waterfront today—the 13th day of the Port of New York's wildcat pier strike.

After police reserves subdued the punching and kicking demonstrators, they reported three men had been injured, one of them apparently seriously. Seven men were held for questioning.

The disturbance broke out when five gangs of AFL dock workers attempted to report for duty at the Isbrandtsen Line piers.

Sees No Time For Decision By Congress

'New Look' Military Program No Radical Departure, He Reports

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today any President ought to be impeached or even hanged who did not act immediately if the country were attacked by an aggressor.

The President told his news conference the "new look" military program which has been under attack by some Democrats represents the best efforts to use modern weapons and to conserve manpower in any war that might break out.

No Radical Departure

He said there was no radical departure from accepted military principles but rather an effort to combine scientific developments, geographical factors and other advances in a modern military machine.

The President spoke out on the military situation after defending the position taken by Secretary of State Dulles yesterday that it would not be necessary for the chief executive to consult Congress in advance before acting to meet an attack.

Eisenhower said nobody could foresee every possible condition that might arise. He said he was not backing away from the statement he made last week that this country would not be carried into war without the approval of Congress.

Cites Example

But he said, as an example of an extreme case, he could conceive of word coming to him while he was in the news conference that a great fleet of airplanes was coming from the south to destroy the United States.

If any citizen would hold him guiltless if he sat there and tried to get action before acting himself, the President said, he doesn't know who that citizen would be.

Self preservation requires quick reaction by nations as well as individuals, the President observed. If you are attacked, he said, you don't say call the police, you fight back or at least you run.

He said the situation was somewhat different before the Korean conflict began. The first order at the time of the North Korean attack was for air support to the South Koreans and he said there was plenty of time to go to Congress.

Group Carries Anti-Card Issue Before Courts

A petition asking an injunction against the city of Marion on the anti-card playing ordinance recently enacted by City Council was filed Tuesday in Common Pleas Court by seven Marion businessmen.

They state in their petition that they operate places of business open to the public to which customers come for amusement, for the purchase of tobacco, cigarets, candy and soft drinks. The petition adds that in some of these places of business "pool and billiards are played."

Prior to the effective date of the ordinance facilities for card playing were available to their customers, the plaintiffs continue, and "sociable card games were played on the premises."

Their principal source of income in the operation of their places of business was derived from customers who played cards in establishments before the effective date of the ordinance, the petition elaborates, and notes that the plaintiffs "were granted amusement licenses by the city of Marion granting them the privilege of conducting places of amusement open to the public."

Industry Stressed

St. Patrick's in Ireland Is a Serious Observance

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — St. Patrick's Day came to the Irish Republic today on the brink of a general election—but the politically minded Irish who like to be different forgot politics.

It's an old Irish custom to bury the political hatchet on the national holiday.

Even that old fighter for Irish freedom, Prime Minister Eamon de Valera, was away in London for the "blessing of the shamrock" among the British who once condemned him to death.

And any Irishman who has whooped it up in South Boston or along New York's Third avenue would get almost homesick for a March 17 among the Irish-Americans.

All Bars Closed

There's no "drowning the shamrock" here. All bars are closed on St. Patricks Day.

And for uttering a begorra it's the back of the hand to you — comedian stuff in the new Ireland is frowned upon.

The Emerald Isle of many farms celebrates instead with a parade showing off tremendous strides in industrial development.

Few politicians even get in the marching.

Some preliminary campaign blasts have been fired for the election set for May 18.

De Valera—still a formidable campaigner even though 71 and nearly blind—decided to go to the people after his Fianna Fail party suffered setbacks in special elections to fill vacancies in the Dail (Parliament).

Fundamentally, there is little difference in the outlook of Ireland's political parties.

All on Common Ground

All are on common ground in pushing for more industries and in seeking to incorporate the six northern counties which are part of the United Kingdom.

The test of strength will be between De Valera and the Fine Gaelers led by John Costello, 63-year-old lawyer who was prime minister for the three years 1948-51 in a coalition government.

Four other smaller parties—Labor, Farmers, Republicans and Independents—are united against De Valera. There has been some talk of trying for a national government.

Good Beef Feeding Practices Pointed Out on Tour

Cattlemen Visit 4 Farms In County, Hear Talk By OSU Expert

There are about one million more cattle now than a year ago and evidence shows the total will increase, according to James Warner, beef cattle specialist at Ohio State University

Warner said more calves were produced in 1953 than were slaughtered and that beef cow numbers increased about six per cent over last year. Although there will be some up and down periods, cattle prices and numbers will remain about the same through 1954 and 1955, he said.

WARNER WAS ONE of three speakers at a discussion following a beef cattle tour recently N H Leitnaker of the cattle division of Producers' Livestock Cooperative Association and James Smoot, Marion Producers' manager, also spoke at the meeting, held in Trinity Lutheran Church

A tour of four farms in this area was made in the morning, prior to the discussion meeting Visited were the farms of Francis Gruber, Walter Mautz, H H Beringer and Paul Almendinger

AT EACH stop, Warner commented on the farm's operation He pointed out Gruber's good feeding program, designed to give the best production per acre At Gruber's there were 40 head of medium yearlings that had been purchased last October and fed on corn silage, hay and grain. The cattle had been out on corn stalks from October 24 till December 1 then brought in and put on silage and grain ration They had access to hay all the time

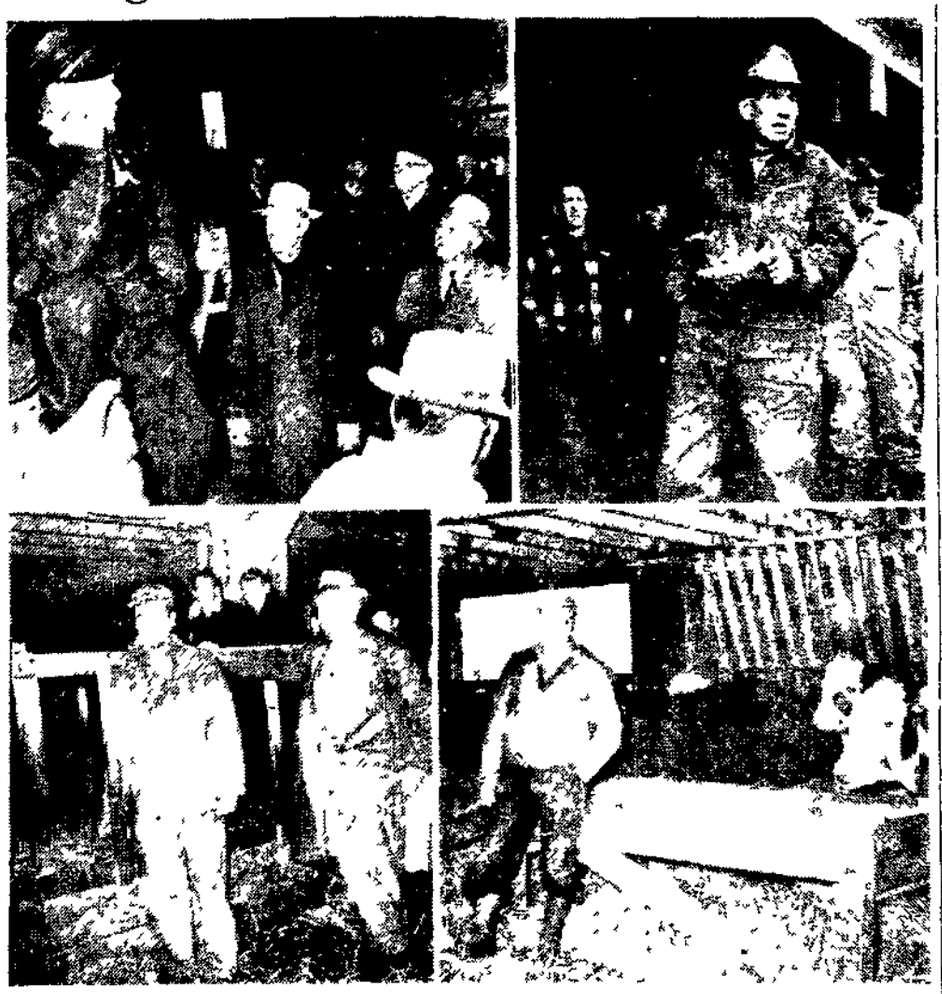
One of the features at the Mautz farm was hog feeding following cattle Warner said one pound of pork could be produced where hogs follow cattle for hogs consume the waste cattle couldn't use He also said Mautz had an excellent arrangement in the feeding area Mautz has 125 head of choice calves, purchased in December, on feed.

WARNER RECOMMENDED self-feeding of hay and a small water fountain similar to one on the Beringer farm, rather than a large tank Self-feeding reduces labor he said and the small fountain will not freeze up and will give fresher water Beringer has about 45 calves and yearlings purchased in September and October, being fed on grass silage. The silage is largely composed of legume grasses mixed with hay and corn cob meal

At the Almendinger farm Warner emphasized good management and breeding to produce healthy calves He said the Almendinger farm had good feeding without the use of silage.

WARNER SAID the most dollars per acre come from corn silage, corn cob meal with a little supplement and good hay Adding grass silage produces less gain but cuts the cost Feeding on hay, pasture and corn cob meal at present prices, costs about $2 25 per pound gain Adding corn silage makes for an $ 08 reduction he said

The Almendinger farm does not buy feeders but depends on a 30 cow pure bred Angus commercial herd The cows were fed on hay and feeders started in on full hay feed plus 10 pounds of grain This ration was increased until the cows were past the yearling stage Then they were put on full grain feed plus hay



ABOUT 75 MARION COUNTY FARMERS visited four farms in the Beef Feeder Tour Approximately 40 of the group attended a luncheon. Along with studying the operations of the farms, the group heard Ohio State University specialist James Warner discuss good beef practices

Ohioan Asks Smaller Cut in Butter Support

Dairyman Says Farm Outlook Okay With 5 Per Cent Reduction

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Ohio dairy farmer said today he will get along all right when price supports on butter are reduced 15 per cent April 1 as ordered by Secretary of Agriculture Benson

But I doubt if a lot of the younger Ohio farmers particularly ex-GI's could James M Lewis of Hamilton told a reporter

So I'm in favor of reducing the butter price supports just five per cen That way some of these newer farmers won't be put out of business

Lewis is one of 50 representatives of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation here to brief Ohio lawmakers on the kind of a new farm program they want

The Ohioans particularly emphasized the cut in butter support should be as Lewis suggests a instead of 15 per cent

The bureau's president Everett F Rittenour said he thought there was a chance Secretary Benson would change his mind on this

'I'm an ex-GI myself' continued Lewis 'But I was lucky My father worked the farm while I was away Some of the others are just getting started They have a lot of money invested in machinery

'I wouldn't want to see them get too radical'

This was the second and final day of the Ohio bureau's annual visit to Washington

The delegates start out today with breakfast with Ohio congressmen and end with a discussion of their findings

Besides the farm program they are urging approval of the St Lawrence Seaway and expansion of world trade to find markets for food surpluses

Yesterday, they heard a brief explanation of the administration's farm program from True D Morse undersecretary of agriculture

Morse described the butter price support reductions as a beginning attempt to rid the country of mounting surpluses

One Ohioan asked Morse if he thought the present plan to lower parity prices would move surplus butter into trade channels

It's doubtful' replied Morse No one knows what the price of butter would have to be to become competitive with other spreads"

January Farm Prices Higher

Still Below Level Of 1953, However

January farm prices, three per cent higher than in December, were still three per cent below January 1953, Clif Garwick research analyst for the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, reports

Writing in the March issue of the Ohio Farm Bureau News, Garwick says that during the same period, prices farmers pay for goods rose one per cent These prices were one-half per cent below a year ago

He reported farm wage rates interest and taxes also were up and that the parity ratio at 92 was two per cent below a year ago.

In the past six years, farmers' use of electricity has increased about 100 kilowatt hours. The 1947 figure of 216 KWH increased to 317 last year while the rate decreased from 3 1 cents to 2 8 cents Average monthly bill for electricity now is $8 80, compared with $6 60 in 1947

He said agricultural engineering projects are popular with boys Gehres figures show that agricultural engineering projects are increasing fastest They have grown from 1 100 in 1945 to 5 000 in 1953 Thirteen hundred and eighty learned to service the farm tractor while others learned woodworking and electricity

Short Term Credit From Bank Called Best for Farmers

Farmers could buy farm supplies at lower prices if they borrowed from banks and farm lending institutions instead of depending on farm supply dealers for short term credit according to Lyle Barnes, Ohio State University farm management specialist

Farm supply dealers could lower prices if they didn't carry open charge accounts Few supply dealers charge interest on open accounts so they must charge higher prices to cover costs of extending this type of credit to their customers Barnes said That makes cash customers pay part of the credit costs for farmers who use open accounts, unless supply dealers offer cash discounts

Interest rates are determined by costs of extending credit he said Banks and farm lending institutions lend money at the lowest possible cost They reduce loan costs by handling large volumes of loans

Barnes says increased cash expenses and capital requirements make credit an important farm tool.

Pastures Need Careful Work, Soil Men Claim

Increase in Forage Made Possible by Proper Fertilizers

Your bluegrass pastures will give you extra tons of forage, last longer in summer and come back quicker in the fall, if you feed them a well balanced supply of nutrients this spring and be reasonable about grazing them

That s the opinion of the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee But if you underfeed and overgraze your pastures, they will fold up as soon as warm weather arrives and recovery will be difficult

"Well fertilized, carefully grazed permanent pastures give a full cover and keep the soil cool," points out the committee 'That adds up to more grazing days for your beef and dairy cattle '

'Some soils men recommend using the equivalent of 500 pounds of 10-10-10 fertilizer per acre on bluegrass, the committee says Adding a nitrogen fertilizer after the first grazing they say, helps stretch out the grazing season '

Thousands of acres of Midwest grasslands could produce two to three times more forage for livestock if sufficient fertilizer were added and good grazing methods followed

Such a plan is profitable says the committee 'Feed costs represent about half the total expense of milk production Pasture is the cheapest high quality feed you can produce 'Larger pasture yields due to fertilizer use will cut feeding costs, increase net returns and step up the land s livestock carrying capacity "

Albuquerque's Police Cruisers Without Plates

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—The deadline for 1954 auto license plates in New Mexico passed two weeks ago and state police have promised a crackdown on delinquent drivers

Albuquerqueans are wondering what's going to happen to the city police force which still has 1953 plates on its cars

City officials explain the delay is because they formerly rented the cars and are awaiting transfer of title to the city before buying new plates

Students Learn Farming by Growing Crops, Stock

Instruction in Classroom Is Supplemented With Practical Experience

"Growing into farming" is the way one Marion County high school agriculture teacher describes the students' livestock and crop projects

To Don Decker, LaRue High School agriculture teacher, that slogan means a combination of practical experience and classroom instruction As freshmen the students select crop and livestock projects to work on and then start learning from the ground up

THROUGH THE school years, students get practical experience from actually raising their project and gain tips from classroom discussions For example, take a typical high school project in raising sheep

Last summer, Norm Buyer, an 11th grader at LaRue High School, showed his cousin Bill's sheep at the county fair Bill Buyer's flock won championships, for both ewes and bucks, in the grand, junior and open classes

THOSE PRIZES must have stimulated Norm for he took sheep raising as one of his projects At present he's working with cousin Bill's sheep, waiting to build up a flock of his own

The flock, which started out two years ago with two ewes and a buck, has increased to three bucks and thirteen ewes That gives Norm quite a job to handle since he attends classes all day long and also has a gilt project to care for each day

Besides doing the practical work in caring for the sheep, Norm takes school instruction in sheep breeding care and feeding His high school agriculture teacher hopes the combination of instruction and work will give Norm, and other students enough experience to go on their own after graduation

"WE LIKE TO start each boy off with one livestock and one crop project as a high school freshman" Decker said "Then we hope he adds onto each project each year so that he can graduate from part-time to full-time farming after leaving school

The purpose of this growing into farming method is to help students be on their own and not dependent on their dads

'Sometimes a boy can make enough money off of a project to start himself out as a farmer Decker said 'If not he's received valuable experience for the day he is on his own'

The Buyers started out with Suffolk purebred sheep This year they added Dorset-Cornedale to the flock

Norm doesn't plan to specialize in sheep raising for a career for he wants to do general farming There will be lots more high school projects in the Buyer family His younger brother Paul will get his first agriculture project in high school next year And there's still brother Duane and sister Joan to go through high school

NORM BUYER, right, and Don Decker LaRue High School agriculture teacher display four lambs on the farm of Buyer's grandfather, William Buyer of LaRue Norm has taken sheep raising as one of his high school agriculture projects He is a junior at LaRue High

Water Lacking In Bathrooms, Engineer Says

Rain Needed To Ease Shortage; Cisterns, Farm Ponds To Help

COLUMBUS — Many farm bathrooms are without water according to I F Blauser extension agricultural engineer Farm water supplies will continue critical unless there is more rain than usual this spring he said

Cisterns farm ponds and spring developments will help furnish water for non-drinking household uses and for livestock if wells do not supply enough water This will conserve drinking water supplies

Cistern Not Enough

A cistern will not supply enough water for farm needs The average house will not furnish enough water from roof run-off to meet family needs Blauser said

A dairy barn roof will provide only enough water for a fourth of the animals it houses A poultry house however will supply enough water for the birds it houses even if it is a two, three or four story house

The size of cistern to build depends on the roof area from which water will be collected People sometimes build a cistern too large then think it leaks when it never gets full he said

20 Gallons A Foot

Blauser said each square foot of roof area will supply 20 gallons of water each year when there is 36 inch rainfall Cisterns should be built to hold about a fourth of the water a roof will furnish in a year

On some farms ponds and springs can be developed to supplement present water supplies, he said

Group Plans Activities For Sheep Improvement

From 1860 to 1869 Marion County averaged over 95,000 head of sheep By January 1, 1950, there were only 20 600 sheep in the county and the total has risen only 7,000 since then

Much of the decline can be attributed to prices for sheep and wool, however, disease, internal parasites and changes in feed and management also are important causes for the decline.

THAT'S WHY the Marion County Sheep Improvement Committee has been actively working to improve flock quality The committee which began working in December, 1952, will sponsor another sheep dipping this summer and will run a fat lamb show at the county fair for the first time

Tentative plans are under way for an educational meeting this fall The committee, also plans to send out barn cards listing good sheep practices, to local sheep raisers.

SHEEP IMPROVEMENT practices in the county were almost unorganized before the committee was set up A meeting last spring with Ohio State University sheep specialist Ralph Grimshaw present, set up the county program

In the committee's first activity last summer more than 7 000 sheep were dipped by the Oberdier brothers of LaRue The committee received cash from the Oberdiers for organizing the dipping program which went into the sheep improvement fund

OVERALL AIMS of the committee are to improve the quality of wool produced, to follow a close sanitation program, and to encourage the use of pure bred sires

Members of the committee are D E English New Bloomington John Isler Harold Denman and Roy Schweinfurth, Prospect, Cyril Guthery, Asa Myers Bill Buyer and Roy Lovett LaRue, E E Douce, Martel Don Foos Jim Conley Robert Klatt, and Cecil Murphy Marion Roy Gatewood Caledonia and Jim Smoot manager of the Producer's Livestock Cooperative Association

Why Crime

By George Sokolsky

SOKOLSKY

The object of punishing criminals is to reduce crime, to make crime unpalatable and not worthwhile. Crime is on the increase in the United States, but what is frightening is that the increase is among our youth. J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI reports:

"Nearly one-half of the persons arrested for crimes against property involved people who were under 21 years of age."

This figure is too high for the nation's good. It is an index to the debasement of private morals, to a loss of parental respect and influence, and to a failure of church and school. The government of a free country is never a responsible agency for private morals.

Every effort of government to legislate private morals ends in failure because the people resent it and resist it. When schools are largely government-financed and controlled, they are regarded as an institution apart and are often governed by separate boards chosen directly by the citizens.

It is in the home, the church and the school that the morals of the young are nurtured or abandoned.

In the United States, with its unusual incidence of broken homes and with the large number of mothers working for a living, the home, under such circumstances, does not present a satisfactory environment for the child.

Divorce is particularly tough on children, when the separated parents, especially if they remarry, compete in bribing the child for its affection. The child can become so psychotic, under such circumstances, as to be a problem.

In large cities in which parents are often unrelated to the child's life for many hours of the day, the child loses respect for the parent because direct influences practically cease to exist during the important formative years.

While teachers are important, they never can take the place of the parent, no matter how diligent the teacher may be. Mother-love is a quality all its own and no substitute for that quality can be generated by objective sociology.

THE TEACHER these days is only too often a harried person, underpaid, bogged down by administrative work, disturbed by the lack of discipline and respect on the part of many pupils, particularly such older ones as hate the schools, only attending because the law requires them to.

The teacher used to be a highly respected member of the community, and is today in smaller towns. In a big city, the teacher is lost in the population, a worker among workers, a subway rider hidden in the mob.

The compensation for teaching is only a living and what satisfaction may come from producing a good student occasionally. Many of them leave a chosen vocation because it is so ungratifying.

When one speaks of the church in this free country, the term implies a large number of sects holding differing views of the nature of God and man and even of morals.

While church attendance in general is on the increase, it is difficult to determine whether the influence of religious teaching upon the formation of character is as great today as it was half a century ago.

FOR INSTANCE, Sunday schools devote themselves, in the younger years, to activities rather than to precepts, to making and doing things rather than to absorbing the moral teachings of the great religions. I like, as I travel about the country, to talk to young people about the Bible and I must say that I discover an appalling ignorance of the moral character of that document. What is the foundation of our particular civilization, if it is not in the Bible?

J. Edgar Hoover, in his testimony to the House subcommittee on appropriations, adds this to the problem:

"There is one factor which may be the cause of the increase of crime, in my estimation. That is the abuse of parole, probation, and other forms of clemency which, to my mind, almost makes justice a mockery. I am strongly in favor of proper parole and probation and any form of clemency that tends to rehabilitate men, but I am vigorously opposed to the type of clemency which turns confirmed criminals loose upon society. I feel very strongly about that."

And well he might, for the confirmed criminal not only commits crimes but he breeds criminals.

'Technicalities'

By Victor Riesel

I see by a special congressional report that Rep. Clare Hoffman has been trying to get the floor to introduce a resolution which would have the clerk of the House of Representatives "advise Victor Riesel" that Congress did not refuse to appropriate $100,000 for an investigation of racketeering because it feared pressure and retaliation from anybody.

RIESEL

Rep. Hoffman wants the House to make it plain that only "technicalities" kept it from turning the money over to the investigating committee headed by Rep. George Bender.

Fine! Now let's get around the "technicalities" and get up the $100,000. This won't be an investigation of labor as such. It will be a probe of the men who prey on labor — racketeers who, according to the Kefauver investigators with whom I've been talking, are just as likely to be found running narcotics to the nation's school children as a side line to their labor operations.

THESE MUSCLE MEN are vertical operators — but many inside labor who have opposed them have been found horizontal.

I'm thinking especially of St. Louis and East St. Louis, where the racketeers in labor operate in a pattern similar to that of the old Capone mob in Chicago, which took over virtually all of the Windy City's unions for a bloody decade.

There have been seven murders of labor men in the St. Louis area in the past year or so. Those close to the grand jury there believe that the men were killed for the kind of reasons that Capone and his boys knocked off stubborn fellows further north.

What's more, the grand jury people feel that the labor mobs' enforcers (executioners) are part of the narcotics crowd in St. Louis — which is now one of the toughest racket nests of all.

Unions have been bought and sold just like hardware — and the killings are evidence that the sudden sale of charters isn't always unanimously agreed upon.

THE "UNION LEADERS" there need not necessarily be tied in with the narcotics crowd to get enforcers. They have muscles of their own.

Only a few weeks ago, one Earl Fines, assistant business agent of the AFL Hodcarriers and Common Laborers Union, Local 338, was charged with assault - to - commit - murder on complaint of a member from Hartford, Ill.

There were undoubtedly some powerful intellectual differences between the two.

The complaint, filed by a Charles Heath, said that the assistant business manager crowded his automobile to the curb in Hartford and fired three shots at it. Fines then allegedly followed his union brother home and let go twice more.

Many of the boys hit pay dirt much more subtly. There is, for example, the trial of three business agents — out of 17 who were indicted on anti - racketeering charges.

These officials were "Dutch" Bianchi, out-state representative of the Hoisting Engineers (Joe Fay's outfit); William Foster, business agent of Local 110, Building Laborers, and representative of the Laborers District Council of Eastern Missouri, and Larry Thompson, business representative of Local 574, Building Material and Construction Chauffeurs Union.

THEY'VE JUST gotten 10 years each in the federal pen and were told by an angry Judge Rubey M. Hulen that for five years after they got out they cannot hold union office.

It would have been nice if they had been told that by some of their union superiors long before they began to brutalize the nerves and civil rights of their own members and local businessmen. When labor waits too long, the public winds up with what has resulted on the New York waterfront — paralysis, loss of wages and profits and, perhaps soon, a ghost port.

It is no secret that Dutch Bianchi has long been the spokesman for the convicted men and many others still roaming free.

Dutch sold labor peace at high rates with gimmicks like the one for which he was convicted. He merely charged a pipe line company three cents a foot for his permission to dig up some 9 miles of pipe without being delayed by "labor trouble." That one project brought him $15,000.

When the labor leaders wanted a pay-off, they merely sent bills to the employers in the name of an equipment company, the stock company, the stock of which they controlled. Of course, the company never delivered any equipment — except a messenger to carry off the loot from the corporations being shaken down.

There are scores of Dutch Bianchis, Everywhere!

Now who's holding up that hundred grand?

43rd Birthday

By Hal Boyle

ABOARD THE MAURETANIA (AP)—A sea cruise is the best way in the world today to cure yourself of land sickness, the gee-I'd-like-to-get-away-from-it-all feeling.

On a ship you can get away from practically everything that bothers you, but you can't sail away from time.

HAL BOYLE

Ever since my 42nd birthday I've had a sinking feeling that, sooner or later, I'd be 43 years old. And sure enough it happened just a few days ago, somewhere in the Caribbean.

I dreamed that old father time grabbed me by the forelock (or what is left of my forelock) and his gray voice wheezed in my ear:

"Tag again, kid. You're it. You're 43. Did you think you'd get away this year?"

-:-

THEN I AWOKE and heard my wife saying:

Why are you trying to hide under the pillow, Rover? Wake up. Happy birthday!"

I groaned and pulled the sheet back over my head. This annual birthday cowardice on my part always annoys Frances.

"Listen, my little siree with the fringe on the top,' she said, "I'm getting tired of nursing you though your birthdays. Why do you always take a birthday as a personal disaster, or as if it were a plot against you?'

She had a point. I always feel fragile on my birthdays, fearful that something unexpected and dreadful will happen. I am afraid if I comb my hair it will all come out at once, or if I brush my teeth they will all fall out on the bathroom floor. From head to toe I feel decrepit.

"It's a matter of heredity," I told Frances. "The fear of growing old runs in our family, just as bankruptcy does in yo—uh—in other families. It's been that way for centuries.'

"But 43 isn't really old."

"Maybe not. But it's such a dumb age. A man's age makes some sense at 20, or 50, or 70. But 43 is a brier patch. At 43 the only thing a man really has definitely finished is his youth. But he hasnt completed his work in life. He hasn't raised his kids, or paid off the mortgage on his home, or saved enough to retire on.

"His wife takes him for granted, as she does the furniture, and other women regard him as a vague puppet that automatically opens doors for them or lights their cigarettes at parties. The only people that find him socially fascinating are insurance salesmen seeking to sell him one last policy.

"At 43 a man is just a prisoner in the haunted house of his own life.'

"I sank back on the pillow, worn out with self-pity.

"I dont want to interrupt your agony," said Frances. "But if you'll just try to buck up and act more like a man about it, you can celebrate your birthday any way you want to.'

"Fine," I said, 'I'll have lunch in bed."

"People have breakfast in bed, not lunch.'

"In my family people always have lunch in bed on their 43rd birthdays.' I told her. "It's been that way for centuries.

WELL, JACK BARNES, our room steward, brought me lunch, and a small crying towel. He cheered me by saying while women could understand the horror of turning 40, only a man could appreciate the wilderness loneliness of being 43.

Later I brushed my teeth carefully—didn't lose a one—and attend a birthday party at the captain's table. After some champagne I felt strong enough to blow the single candle on my birthday cake. Understanding my suffering, those present recalled cases of men they knew who not only had survived their 43rd birthday but even had gone on to finer and bigger things. Probably nothing but lies, lies, lies, but I did feel better.

Then I went up alone and stood by a deck rail, just a middle-aged man on a middle-aged ship under a middle-aged moon, staring at the infinite night.

Somewhere beneath me in the deep lay the coral-encrusted bones of many forgotten men, and the wind that cooled my face, or a wind just like it, would blow a hundred years from now on faces yet unborn, bringing them a fresh mood of mystery.

SUDDENLY IT SEEMED silly to be there beating my head against the thought of time, as if time were a prison wall, when after all time may be merely a movement, a current swirling us toward something well worth seeing it, and age is merely the admission fee.

Turning away from the deck to go below, I felt oddly comforted, and didn't quite mind so much being a year older. But I still say that if there is any age dumber for a man than 43 it is—no, don't tell me—probably 44.

New Bike Tags Not Necessary

Present License Good Until Next December

While automobile owners must have new license tags on their cars by the end of this month, bicycle owners in Marion have no such deadline to meet.

Police Chief Thomas Coon said some 50 people have inquired about purchase of new bike licenses recently. Actually no one in the city need worry about purchasing new bike licenses until December, because no licenses were issued until January of 1953 and all are good for two years from the date issued, Chief Coon explained.

However, those who purchase new bikes must apply for a license before it may be ridden on city streets, he warned.

Some persons were unable to obtain licenses for new bikes recently when supplies ran short, Coon added. New supplies have now arrived and all those previously unable to get licenses should do so as soon as possible, Coon said.

Noting that the department presently has issued some 4,000 bike tags, he said this was well above original estimates of 3,000 bicycles in Marion. Present estimates are that there are some 5,000 bicycles in the city, he said.

The bicycle licensing bureau at the police station is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. It is located in the record bureau office.

Marion YMCA Host For Area Meeting

Over 100 officials from 32 cities in Ohio and West Virginia are meeting at the Marion YMCA today in the third annual district YMCA good housekeeping institute.

The purpose of the institute is to study improvements in YMCA housekeeping, such things as building care and maintenace.

George O. Coleman of Dayton, institute chairman, said Marion was picked primarily because of the new YMCA building and its model appearance and equipment. He said appearance is a great factor in the success of any Y. It is felt, he said, that a tour of the Marion structure — the newest in the two state area — will afford valuable tips on ways to improve Y's in other communities.

In addition, the institute will hear a talk on the "Importance of Good Housekeeping" by A. F. Coykendale, industrial relations manager of the Findlay Division, Gar Wood Industries, Inc., and hold group discussions on problems relating to maintenance. Following a luncheon, films on floor care and general maintenance will be shown, and, in the afternoon, demonstrations will be made of new types of equipment.

Marion Youths To Give Piano Recital

Sally Schneider and Ben Bechtel Ready for Public Concert

Young Marion musicians forming a piano duo team, Miss Sally Schneider and Ben Bechtel, will be presented Sunday afternoon in a public concert at the Hotel Harding by their teacher, Mrs. H. T. Williams. The program is given under auspices of the national music organization, Pi Mu, in which the two Harding High School students are members of Phi of Ohio Chapter. They are members also of the local Youth of Lecture-Recital Club, and are active in the field of music in many ways in the community. Their two-piano recital is set for 3 o'clock in the hotel ballroom.

Both have appeared on district and state music programs, in radio work, are active in school and church music work, and have won high ratings in state music festivals. Besides their instrumental work, both have been members of Marion Civic Chorus. Bechtel is a member of the Harding High School Choir and of the Boys Quartet.

Miss Schneider, a junior in high school, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Schneider of 407 Forest St., and her piano partner, a senior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bechtel of Bexley Ave.

A piano pupil of Mrs. Williams since the age of 5, Miss Schneider has attended Ohio Federation of Music Clubs junior music festivals for 12 consecutive years and she has won "superior" ratings for three years in succession which makes her a "gold certificate" winner. By virtue of this record, she will appear at the festival this year on the formal program of music in the afternoon following the competition. She will do concerto work. The festival will be an event of April 3 at Capital University in Columbus.

MISS SALLY SCHNEIDER AND BEN BECHTEL

In her school music activities, the eleventh grade pupil is pianist for the Junior Choir, and assistant pianist for the Harding High School Choir. She was school pianist while attending Vernon Heights Junior High School. With Mrs. Williams she is doing advanced work in theory in the Pi Mu Progressive Series. She has appeared as piano soloist for meetings of clubs and organizations in Marion, and last year she was featured on the program at a state music teachers meeting in Toledo. She is vice president of the Youth of Lecture-Recital Club.

Pianist for the Harding High School orchestra, Bechtel plays the pipe organ on occasion at First Presbyterian Church. He is immediate past president of the Youth of Lecture-Recital Club. Before enrolling as a pupil of Mrs. Williams, he studied instrumental music with Miss Grace Cooper. He is in the Pi Mu Progressive Series study also under direction of Mrs. Williams. In the fall he expects to enter college as a music major.

Recital presented on the two pianos will include music of both classical and modern composers, with solo numbers by each of the players in addition to the teamwork which they will do. Program aids will be Youth of Lecture-Recital Club members, Sally Shirk and Roger Jamison.

adequate bus service. After being without service for some three weeks now, he said the residents of the city might very well welcome a new company which would give them bus service where and when they most wanted it.

By the end of the 90-day trial period the company would know whether it could continue to operate in the city.

Routes Undetermined

He said he could not say what routes or schedules would be established but that he felt the company would charge a 15-cent cash fare or four tokens for 50-cents as it does in Springfield.

Speaking for the Chamber of Commerce, Hugh E. Webster secretary, said he didn't believe anyone attending the meeting could answer as to whether the merchants would be interested in participating in the plan.

Baker answered that he and other company officials attending the meeting did not expect an answer today but merely wished to present their proposal for consideration.

He said if the merchants could give their answer to the proposal by the end of this week he felt service could be started by April 1.

John T. Ryan, of the Retail Merchants Council, of the Chamber of Commerce, asked what assurance the company could give that it would provide adequate service.

Baker answered that unless the company did provide adequate service it would be defeated before it started. "We would have to provide service when the people wanted it in order to get patrons," he explained.

He also said, in answer to a question by Councilman-at-large Robert G. Haldeman, that the company would not use the equipment of the former Marion Transit Co. but would use bigger and better buses.

In answer to a question by Don Grace, Star advertising manager, Baker said it would not be necessary for all merchants to participate in the plan to purchase tokens — that any of them who wished to participate could do so regardless of their numbers. He added that he felt sure those who did participate would find it a good busines proposition.

Smith Witter, Star business manager, suggested that possibly industry should be asked to participate in the plan also to assure their employes of transportation to and from work.

After more discussion the meeting broke up with a suggestion by Ryan that Jack E. Lautenslager, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce call a meeting of the Retail Merchants Division as soon as possible to determine whether the group would support the proposal made by Baker.

No Decision

No immediate decision was made as to when the meeting might be called. Lautenslager noted that the next regular meeting of the merchants division is scheduled for Monday.

Springfield City Lines officials attending the meeting in addition to Baker were Kenneth L. Rush, vice president and general counsel, and Martin A. Levine, board of directors, and Francis H. Pogue, both members of the Board of Directors.

Other City Councilmen attending were Don Quaintance, Fifth Ward, and Ralph Williams, Fourth Ward.

Indochina

a momentary enemy withdrawal to parachute in a fresh battalion of reinforcements. Tanks and infantry sallied forth from unthreatened defense positions to counterattack the enemy in encircling movements.

The French said the Vietminh continued to suffer heavy losses as Dien Bien Phu braced for a possible all-out rebel drive to overrun the fortress by sheer weight of numbers.

The rebels, badly mauled after four days of suicidal attempts to take the 4-by-6 mile plain, its command post and two air strips, pulled back momentarily in a heavy rain yesterday after driving to within half a mile of the center of the fortress. Then they resumed their assaults from the hills ringing the plain.

French fighters and bombers poured rockets, thousand - pound bombs and machine-gun fire into enemy positions surrounding the fortress.

The French expressed complete confidence they could continue to hurl back with withering curtains of heavy firepower from American-supplied guns the wave after wave of screaming rebels sent into the biggest battle of the seven-year-old Indochina war.

The French gave no figures of their own casualties, but said their losses have been "appreciable."

For the Vietminh, the moment of decision seemed near.

To win a decisive victory, it appeared the rebel commander in chief, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, might throw in all of what's left of the 36,000 to 48,000 troops he was credited with having around Dien Bien Phu for one massive assault on the fortress.

Taxes

most federal excise, or sales, taxes now above that rate.

Despite administration opposition to the excise tax cut, Republicans in Congress have put up little fight against it, apparently following a general strategy of concentrating on blocking the income tax reducing proposals.

Three key congressional Democrats took their appeal to the nation last night in a radio and television broadcast to reply to an address by President Eisenhower the night before.

Charged Inequitable

House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas declared the Republican tax revision program eventually would provide six times as much relief to the upper 20 per cent income brackets as to the great majority of other taxpayers.

He said "this is what the Republicans call a 'balanced' tax program."

He told his listeners if they were among the 80 per cent of Americans who, he said, earn less than $5,000 a year, "the Republican tax program offers you little or no relief at all."

He said the Republican program is a revival of a philosophy that special benefits for the wealthy "may eventually trickle down to the great majority." But actually little or nothing has ever trickled down, he said, "in all the history of Republican tax laws."

Eisenhower had said the loss in revenue from the Democratic proposal would undermine the "cornerstone" of his domestic program, and would lead to bigger deficits and more inflation.

The President said millions of individuals would benefit from the revision bill he described as "fair to all," providing more liberal tax deductions for many items ranging from medical expenses and retirement income to dividends and business depreciation.

Fears Sales Tax

Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) of the Ways and Means Committee, scheduled to tee off the House debate, joined the fray with a statement late yesterday declaring the Democratic tax-cutting plan would "inevitably lead the American people down the road to a general sales tax."

The $100 exemption increase would mean a saving of about $20 for each taxpayer and each of his dependents in middle and lower income brackets. It would relieve more than four million taxpayers with low incomes or large families from any income tax bill at all.

Sen. George (D-Ga), who has proposed increasing exemptions from the present $600 to $800 this year and $1,000 next year, told the Senate yesterday his proposal "might have the effect of halting the present downswing" in the nation's economy.

Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn), senior Democrat on the Ways and Means Committee, stressed during the Democratic broadcast that his party's proposal also would knock out of the revision bill a proposed reduction in individual income taxes on dividends received by stockholders.

100,000 Irish March Up 5th Avenue in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 100,000 Irish—some pure-bred, some mixed and others just sons of Erin for the day—march 50 blocks up 5th Avenue today in honor of St. Patrick.

The parade follows a green line in the middle of the avenue from 44th to 96th Street.

The grand marshal is Mayor Robert F. Wagner, Irish on his mother's side, and the guest of honor is Bernard Butler, lord mayor of Dublin.

Francis Cardinal Spellman and other Roman Catholic clergy will review the procession from the steps of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Men Awaiting Jury Action on Assault Charge

Two Marion men accused of shooting with intent to wound and assault and battery were bound over to the Marion County grand jury following a preliminary hearing in Municipal Court Tuesday.

Millard Large, 32, of 920 E. Mark St. was charged with shooting with intent to wound and Arthur Ray Bruce, 23, of the same address with assault and battery, in affidavits signed by Paul Walizer of 193 Lincoln Ave. following their arrest by city police March 11.

Both previously entered not guilty pleas in Municipal Court and bond for their appearance for the preliminary hearing was set at $1,000 by Judge W. Dexter Hazen. He continued the bond for their appearance before the grand jury.

Large and Bruce were arrested when police were called to their residence at 3 a.m. last Thursday by a neighbor who said they were creating a disturbance.

Later Walizer claimed that Large fired a shotgun at him and Bruce struck him on the head with a rolling pin, during an argument. Police said Walizer had cuts on his mouth and some of his teeth knocked out and that there was evidence a shotgun had been fired in a room at the E. Mark St. address.

McCarthy

had offered to give McCarthy derogatory information about the other armed services if McCarthy would call off his investigation of the Army.

Seeks Special Rule

He said he would recommend that the investigations group adopt a special rule on cross-examination—but only for this probe it ordered yesterday. Present rules allow only committee members and staff to cross-examine, though others may suggest questions.

The Wisconsin senator has agreed to stand aside as chairman while the subcommittee looks into Army charges that McCarthy and his chief counsel Roy Cohn tried to apply improper pressure to get special treatment for G. David Schine, a former unpaid subcommittee consultant who is now an Army private at Camp Gordon, Ga.

To be probed at the same time are McCarthy's and Cohn's countercharges that Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and John G. Adams, the Army's general counsel, tried to "blackmail" them into an effort to ward off a subcommittee investigation of alleged Communists in Army ranks.

Mundt To Preside

Serving as temporary chairman during this special probe will be Sen. Mundt (R-SD), a close associate of McCarthy in past proceedings. Mundt said he preferred that some other Senate group not directly concerned with the controversy do the job, but he bowed to the will of the seven-man group, which voted yesterday to do its own investigating.

Part of the proceedings will be in public, probably before television cameras. These hearings may come late next week.

McCarthy will continue to serve on the subcommittee during the probe and thus, unless there are further rule changes, could play a dual role—that of the investigator and the investigated.

The senator has said he is "fully satisfied that no one on my staff is guilty of improper conduct or using any undue influence on the Army." He said he regards it as being of the "utmost importance" that the public get all of the facts in the case.

Special Staff Sought

The subcommittee—which met behind closed doors yesterday to lay the ground rules for the unusual probe—was in recess until Tuesday while Mundt and Sen. McClellan of Arkansas, the senior Democrat on the group, searched for a special staff of two lawyers and three investigators to dig into the evidence. It was agreed that the subcommittee's regular staff would take no part in this work, since its key members are involved.

Mundt said he and McClellan agreed at a meeting last night to hunt for a special chief counsel "aloof from the whole controversy, competent and with a name recognized by the public generally as meeting those qualifications."

Authorize $20,000 Draw

Galion Councilmen Okay Many Emergency Laws

GALION — An advance draw of $20,000 from the Crawford County auditor was authorized by City Council Tuesday night, during a busy session when several ordinances were passed as emergency measures.

One of the emergency measures was an ordinance to transfer money from the electric light fund to the general fund, due to the urgent need of money by the city. The sum authorized will be stipulated at 20 per cent of the total cost of operating the offices of Council, clerk of Council, mayor, auditor, treasurer, city solicitor, service director and civil service commission. This action was taken because the general fund would not meet further appropriations.

TO MAKE IT POSSIBLE to purchase a new police cruiser, a supplementary appropriation ordinance was passed as an emergency, allocating $2,500 for this purpose. At the same time, Council passed a resolution authorizing the service director to dispose of the present police cruiser, by sale or trade, in contemplation of purchase of the new car.

Other legislation was passed to make it possible to secure a certificate of title, instead of an abstract, on land adjacent to Railroad St., which is being purchased for the new city water supply and storage site. Another ordinance was passed providing for purchase of the land in order to secure a deed for the reservoir site.

The rules were suspended to pass an ordinance approving the plat of the Pfeuer sub-division in the city corporation. Purchase of a half-ton pickup truck for the fire department was authorized in another ordinance passed as an emergency measure. The service director was authorized to advertise for bids.

FIRST STEPS toward lease of land by the city to the Little League Baseball, Inc., was taken when Council passed an ordinance declaring four inlots not in use by the city and released for lease. The lots are on N. Jefferson St., next to Heise Park.

The problem of a watchman for some 40 children of the South Elementary School district who cross the unguarded railroad crossing on John St. was presented to City Council Tuesday night following the Council session. Some time was spent in discussing the problem with parents of the children who were present for the meeting.

PARENTS OF the children explained that they had taken their problem to school board members at a recent meeting of the board of education. The board agreed, they said, to pay its half of expenses for a watchman to be on duty at the crossing for two and one-half hours each day, if the city would pay its half. City officials explained that the responsibility should revert back to the board of education since that board had redistricted the schools and caused this situation to prevail.

It was explained that the watchman had resigned recently because his hours at the crossing were cut due to legality of pay for this service by both the school board and the city. Mayor Francis Schalip advised the residents that they bring in a petition requesting that the crossing be guarded and he would see that it was placed in the proper hands, and that railroad authorities would be requested for flashers and walks at the crossing. He also advised the group he would contact school officials.

Ike

Without mentioning former President Truman's name Eisenhower said he was not trying to judge the action in that case. Truman consulted congressional leaders before acting in Korea but did not ask Congress for a declaration of war.

Eisenhower discussed the military situation one day after the first official confirmation that the United States has a usable hydrogen bomb.

There has been a chorus of administration voices saying the "new look" doesn't mean the United States has no strategy except the kind that would touch off World War III, but instead that it can continue to meet comparatively minor threats in a variety of ways.

Secretary of State Dulles, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), leader for his party in the Senate, and Rep. W. Sterling Cole, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, spoke out in different fields yesterday.

Most of the criticism of the "new look" has appeared to assume it involves putting all America's chips on "massive retaliation"—presumably with nuclear weapons—while cutting down the size of conventional ground forces.

Critics Question Strategy

The critics ask, How can the United States order such retaliation against a Communist vital center without starting World War III? And if it has no alternate plan will it be forced in any situation to let the Communists get away with aggression—or touch off atomic war?

Cole said on a television program filmed for New Orleans station WDSU-TV that the United States has the hydrogen bomb and can deliver it anywhere in the world.

He also said it is a "fair assumption" that Russia, too, has the H-bomb.

Knowland told a Philadelphia audience last night that this country has a "multiplicity of alternatives" to meet any Communist move and isn't tied down by the "massive retaliation" policy.

Dulles Defends Policy

Dulles told a news conference the key to the new military program lies in keeping the Communists off balance so that they do not know where retaliation is coming.

And, expanding on this theme in an article published in the quarterly Foreign Affairs, Dulles said the best means to deter aggression would be a combination of local defense forces on the scene backed by the mobile power to hit back hard. The method, he said, would vary in different cases.

He said the free world "must not put itself in a position where the only response open to it is general war." He wrote:

"Massive atomic and thermonuclear retaliation is not the kind of power which could most usefully be evoked under all circumstances. Security for the free world depends, therefore, upon the development of collective security and community power."

Knowland suggested in his speech that the retaliation "may be a naval blockade, conventional air harassment . . . or greater supplies of arms and ammunition to non-Communist governments."

Dulles said NATO allies would certainly be consulted in most cases before any retaliatory attacks were ordered.

Sides With Dulles

Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee sided with Dulles' contention that the President has the authority under the NATO treaties to order instant retaliation if any of this countries' allies are attacked.

Wiley said he would expect the President to consult with Congress either before or after moving, depending on the urgency of the situation.

Eisenhower told his news conference last week that "there is going to be no involvement of America in war unless it is a result of the constitutional process that is placed upon Congress to declare it."

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn), comparing the Eisenhower and Dulles statements, commented, "Again the President and a member of his Cabinet have taken opposing positions."

Aman said the ring did an annual business of around 10 million dollars. He estimated the gang's minimum weekly take from heroin sales was $168,000.

The government had spent at least six months and bought narcotics as evidence against the ring which Aman said was headed by Anthony Pape, 40. Others held on narcotics charges are:

3 Marion Students, One From Cardington Give Reviews of Trip

Three Marion students and one from Cardington, whose attendance at the World Affairs Institute in Cincinnati on March 5-6 was sponsored by the Marion and Cardington Rotary Clubs, gave a review of the conference at the Marion Rotary Club weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday at Hotel Harding.

They included Murray Leeper and Carol Bachman from Harding High School, Claire Needham from St. Mary High School, and Joyce Lorrimer from Cardington High School. They were accompanied by Miss Edith Brown, teacher at Harding.

All seniors, they were selected to attend the conference because of their excellent work in civic studies in school.

They discussed various highlights of the Institute, especially discussions on world trade problems which they witnessed. As each delegate had been a member of a panel discussion group relating to world problems, each gave a brief summary of the conclusions reached by the panel groups.

The students were introduced by Howard Guthery, chairman of the club international forum committee.

Visiting Rotarians included C. R. Canfield of Ravenna, John Shook of Mansfield and Ben Van Campen of East Liberty, Pittsburgh. Guests included M. A. Cavenaugh of Philadelphia, Pa., O. G. Bomsta of Minneapolis, Minn., R. W. Kerr of Sidney, John Smallshaw of Cleveland, Paul Bachman, Roland Leeper, Floyd Cornely and Richard Langdon of Marion.

Pizza Pie Baked in Flaky Biscuit Dough

To make Lenten dishes a little more savory, try using such spices as oregano and basil. A dash of oregano will pep up the protein-rich dishes usually served this time of year.

After Easter, try using this herb in meat and meat stews. It's good in vegetable or meat soup too.

This recipe for skillet pizza pie is one the whole family will appreciate.

Use: Drop baking powder biscuit dough, using 2 cups flour

½ lb. sharp Cheddar cheese
7 oz. can tuna fish
½ cup drained tomatoes
¼ cup tomato catsup
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
½ teaspoon whole oregano leaves, crumbled
⅛ teaspoon ground sweet basil leaves
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
Parmesan cheese

Spread biscuit dough over bottom and half the way up side of 10½-inch heavy skillet. Slice cheese and place over dough. Crumble tuna fish over cheese. Combine next 7 ingredients and spread over tuna fish. Cover pan with a tight-fitting lid. Bake over low heat 45 to 50 minutes or until dough is cooked through. Raise edge of dough with spatula to check on brownness of crust. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese over top. Cut into wedges and serve piping hot.

Marion Races by Cincinnati 4-3 in Playoff Opener

Crowdis Outshines Hodge; Second Game Here Tonight

CINCINNATI — Marion's undermanned Barons, capitalizing on two goals by Gordie Vejprava, withstood a late surge by the champion Cincinnati Mohawks to win the opening game of Series A of the International Hockey League playoffs, 4-3, before a crowd of 2,409 at Cincinnati Garden here last night.

The Barons and Mohawks resume their playoffs tonight when the clubs return to Marion for the second game on the Coliseum ice. Game time is 8:30 p.m. Action will shift back to Cincinnati Thursday night while the fourth game will be played at Marion Saturday night. It's back to Cincinnati Sunday if a fifth game is required and then back to Marion Tuesday for the sixth.

It was a bitter pill for the Hawks to swallow, since the loss was their first in eight playoff starts at home during their two-year term in the IHL and also marked the initial setback on home ice after 16 successive triumphs.

Hard-fought all the way, the battle was marked by a number of near-fights which resulted in Referee Hal Jackson calling 15 penalties, nine of them against the Barons.

Goalie Lou Crowdis made some fine saves for the winners, staving off many a Mohawk shot that appeared destined to wind up in the nets. He had 38 saves to 28 for Charlie Hodge of Cincinnati, No. 1 netminder in the IHL during the regular campaign.

Outstanding in the win last night for Marion were the entire team, particularly the defensemen. Coach Ott Heller, Phil Vitale, Steve Brklacich and Ted Lebioda kept the high - flying Mohawks away from the Baron nets with body checks and puck steals.

Also playing outstanding for the Barons were Goalie Lou Crowdis, wingers Ken Schultz, Wimpy Jones, Tony Poeta and Dutch Delmonte and centers Gordon Vejprava, Harold Jones and Joe Ingoldsby.

Marion was playing shorthanded for most of the final period after assuming what looked like a safe 4-2 lead but staved off the Mohawk bids to score. Crowdis was particularly effective during that period, pushing aside many Mohawk shots.

The win avenged five regular season losses to the league champion Mohawks who were beaten but thrice by the Barons. Cincinnati won the last two times out.

Wimpy Jones put Marion in front, 1-0, on a pass from Dutch Delmonte, in the fourth minute of play, but Kenny Biggs matched that one with an unassisted 45-footer and then gave Cincinnati its only lead at 2-1 in the thirteenth minute of the first period. Hal Jones equalized for Marion with less than two minutes to go and Vejprava's initial tally early in the second period made it 3-2. Vejprava then made it 4-2 midway through the final canto, and Eddie Kachur ended the scoring a few minutes later, as all late desperation bids of the Hawks fell short.

Jets, Mercurys Score Wins in Series Opener

Three-game series from which will come either Marion or Cincinnati's opponent, depending on who wins the current seven-game playoffs were launched last night.

While the Barons were taking a 1-0 edge in their best of seven game series with the IHL champion Cincinnati Mohawks, Toledo and Johnstown got the jump on their foes in the opening tilts of their playoff series.

Toledo trimmed Troy 3-1 while Johnstown edged Ft. Wayne 5-4. Wins tonight by the same teams at Ft. Wayne and Troy would conclude the playoff series but wins by Ft. Wayne and Troy would send the series into deciding third games.

Winners of the pair of series will then face off in another best of three game series, with the winner opposing either Marion or Cincinnati in a seven-game series for the Turner Cup.

Gene Woodling of the New York Yankees made only one error in 247 chances during 1953. His .996 mark tied him with Sam Mele of the White Sox as the best defensive outfielder in the American League.

Health Center Popular Spot at YMCA

Self-Supporting Division Was Established for Older Members

More Marion residents are becoming acquainted each day with the relaxing effects of a steam bath, alcohol massage and ultra-violet treatment at the health service department of the new YMCA.

Vern Miller, physical department head, describes the health center as "one of the finest YMCA facilities in the country."

These facilities include a lounge, private locker rooms, a steam room, separate shower rooms, electric light cabinet, ultra-violet bath room and massage tables. Also available are sleeping cots and an exercise room equipped with an electric bicycle and vibrator, stall bars, wall weights, rowing machine, medicine balls and weights.

—:—

THE HEALTH CENTER was designed to serve the needs of older men, Miller explained. "The services offered to youth—clubs, craft studies and athletics — are well known and remain our chief interest. But the facilities of the health center are available to men who need help in relaxing at the end of their work day, or have a problem in weight control and muscle tone." Miller went on to point out the psychological effects of a good steam bath and massage followed by a short nap: "It's the most healthful form of relaxation I know."

The YMCA health center is open to any adult male. For the best service, Miller recommends that an appointment be made in advance, for a message table might not always be available.

Supposing you have made an appointment. You go the Y physical department. There you receive a towel, soap and locker key, and take the elevator down to the health center. Next, you contact Otis Scott, masseur, informing him of your presence.

After placing your clothing in an individual locker, you might go into the exercise room to limber up and develop muscle tone on the weights or rowing machine. Then, you seek out Scott again for instructions. You can use either the steam room or electric light cabinet; both have the same effect, though the latter is preferred by those men who can't take steam.

How long you remain in the steam room depends on both the temperature of the room and your health. In good health, a probable exposure would be between seven and ten minutes.

AFTER THE STEAM bath, a warm shower is usually taken, followed by a massage. For the next 30 minutes, you get a complete alcohol or olive oil rubdown—from the top of your head to the tips of your toes. Miller says this is so relaxing that many men fall asleep during it.

Leaving the massage table, you finish off with an ultra-violet bath. This is a separate room, allowing complete exposure to the rays. Goggles are furnished and time of exposure is rigidly supervised.

After you leave you may take a nap on a cot—sheets are furnished. Then you dress, completely relaxed, feeling wonderful. After turning your key in, you might want to watch television in the Y lounge. If you come on certain nights of the week you can join a men's fitness or volleyball class or take a swim in the pool.

FEES AT THE HEALTH center are reasonable. "It is a self-supporting department of the YMCA. It receives no funds from the community chest," Miller explained. Fees depend on how many of the health center services are used, but for the "works" they range from 75 cents to $2.75—comparable or lower than those charged in most communities. Membership in the "Y" is not necessary.

Otis Scott, masseur, is a Marionite by birth. He graduated from Harding High School in 1940 and went in the service. It was during this army service that Otis began to lose his sight. While totally blind, Otis attended the Great Lakes Medical College in Cleveland obtaining certification as a limited practitioneer. This, plus his blind training, has enabled him to become an excellent masseur and self-supporting. Otis says he was always interested in athletics and this type of work enables him to keep those interests alive.

JUST BEGINNING a massage is Otis Scott, masseur at the YMCA health center. Otis' head-to-toe treatment, said to be the best form of relaxation in Marion, is available to both members and non-members of the "Y." In the background is the steam room.

Cold Wave In Florida Slows Drills

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

They're having a cold wave in normally sunny Florida these days, but that isn't preventing the slow-starting Brooklyn Dodgers from keeping their hot winning streak going.

The Dodgers now have won seven straight exhibition games after dropping their first three. Five of the victories have been against American League clubs, and the Brooks, who are looking forward to another meeting with the New York Yankees next fall, are hoping this is an indication of things to come.

While members of the Chamber of Commerce went around smashing thermometers, Walter Alston's men edged the Washington Senators 3-2 yesterday before some 5,000 top-coated spectators. Brooklyn took a three-run lead in the third inning and that was enough to offset a two-run rally by the Nats in the seventh.

Still, the Dodger players are having their troubles and they claim it's all because of the weather.

Outfielder Carl Furillo, the National League's batting champion last year, isn't swinging anything like his powerful self and realized it.

"I just can't seem to get loose," he moaned. "My back and shoulders are tighter than a drum. When is it gonna warm up?"

Jackie Robinson, who sat out the last two games with a stiff knee, isn't taking any chances on aggravating the condition during the cold spell.

"This weather is brutal," he said. "How can you get ready?"

Washington Manager Bucky Harris also had some nasty things to say about it. His Senators have lost seven games in a row.

"I've been coming down here since 1920 and I've never seen anything like this weather," he said. "We're not going to look good until our front-line pitchers get in shape. They have to get that warm weather now. You can't expect it on the trip North."

The Pittsburgh Pirates, aided by Hal Rice's fifth-inning homer, defeated the Boston Red Sox 2-1 before only 582 chilled spectators. The Bosox picked up their only tally in the first on a triple by Jackie Jensen and a single by George Kell.

Only 500 fans saw the Cincinnati Redlegs pound out an 8-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. Jim Greengrass' three-run homer in the seventh was the difference.

Held to two runs in six innings by Warren Spahn, the Chicago White Sox scored three times in each of the seventh and eighth frames to defeat the Milwaukee Braves 8-3. Nellie Fox slammed a three-run homer for the Chisox.

The Detroit Tigers whipped the New York Yankees 5-3 in a game marked by an injury to the Tigers' young shortstop Harvey Kuenn. He suffered a badly bruised wrist when hit by a pitch thrown by the Yankees' Harry Byrd in the fifth inning. The Bengals sealed the victory with three runs in the ninth off lefty Art Schallock.

Bobby Young's two-run homer in the eighth enabled the Baltimore Orioles to outslug the Cleveland Indians 9-8. Howard Fox, a National League castoff, pitched the first five innings for the Orioles and left the game ahead 7-3.

Schultz, Vejprava and Hal Jones Set League Records

Harold Jones joined Gordon Vejprava and Kenny Schultz in the International Hockey League's top 10 individual scorers and all three Barons set new league marks during the past season, final figures from the IHL office revealed today.

A scoring burst by Jones during the final week of IHL action shoved him into tenth spot in the IHL scoring derby with 82 points, coming on 25 goals and 57 assists.

Nails Third

Schultz retained his third place standing in the scoring race while Vejprava moved up to fifth spot. Schultz ended the season with 48 goals and 53 assists for 101 points while Vejprava's total of 91 points were made up of 58 goals and 33 assists. They led the IHL in hat tricks with five each.

Vejprava's mark of 58 goals set a new IHL record. The previous mark was 52, set during the 1950-51 season by George Parker of Gand Rapids.

Jones and Schultz broke the league mark for most points in one game when they each were credited with nine apiece in last week's 13-4 romp over Louisville. Previous record was eight established Nov. 10, 1947, by Trent Anderson of the Detroit Brights.

Jones and Ft. Wayne's Billy Watson each had five assists in a single game to tie a league record set by Harry Marchand of Windsor Hetche on March 24, 1947.

Many additional league marks were set during the past season. League champion Cincinnati and last-place Milwaukee set team records, with the Mohawks winning 47 games, breaking the old mark of 43, and accumulating 96 points, six better than the previous record. Both previous marks were set during the 1952-53 season. Milwaukee, which wound up with 48 defeats, broke its previous league record of 42 set in the 1952-53 campaign. Cincinnati also set a new IHL mark when it scored 325 goals this season. The old mark was 310, set in the 1952-53 season.

Hall Leads Race

Johnstown's Don Hall set a new IHL record for the most points in one season, 110 and tied the league mark of assists in one season, 67. The previous high for points in a season, 105, was set by Herve Parent of Grand Rapids in the 1950-51 season while the same skater had 67 assists in the same season.

Cincinnati's ace goalie Charlie Hodge set a new league mark for shutouts in one season. His 10 this year bettered the old mark of five set in the 1952-53 season by Claude Evans of the same Mohawk squad.

Defensemen also set new IHL marks. Roland McLenahan of Cincinnati garnered 52 points this season to better the previous scoring by a defense man of 44. Toledo's Harold Johnson held the previous mark which he set in the 1950-51 season. McLenahan also established a new mark for goals scored by defense men when he be

Cardinals Sign Lewis

CHICAGO (AP) — Tommy Lewis, Alabama fullback whose off-the-bench tackle of a touchdown-bound Rice halfback in the 1954 Cotton Bowl game vaulted him into national attention, has signed a Chicago Cardinal contract.

Lewis was the Cards 10th draft choice. A fine blocking back, the 190-pounder also averaged 4.4 yards in carrying the ball 193 times in a 3-year career for the Crimson Tide.

Six of the eight National League shutout leaders since 1946 have been left-handers.

Bevo Francis Shows Way In All-Ohio Cage Selections

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A team averaging 6-5 in height and 133 points per game—that's The Associated Press 1954 All-Ohio college basketball quintet selected with the aid of the state's coaches and sports writers.

Headed by Clarence (Bevo) Francis of Rio Grande, who stands 6-9 and averaged 50.6 per game, the all-star squad has everything.

At forwards are Al Bianchi of Bowling Green, average 23.9, and John Horan, Dayton's 6-8 star who averaged 14.8 on a balanced club which played the country's best.

The guards are Phil Martin, average 19, of Toledo's Mid-American conference champions, and Mark (Buzzy) Davis who paced Marietta's Pioneers to the state and Ohio Conference leaderships with a scintillating 24.5 average.

Francis is a sophomore, Horan and Davis juniors, and Bianchi and Martin seniors. Toledo, Dayton and Bowling Green placed 2 each among the top 15 selectees as a dozen schools shared the berths on the first 3 quintets.

One of the surprises was the amount of support garnered by Dan Simpson of Wilmington. The former Waynesville standout, who towers above the 6-3 mark, averaged 27.5 for the campaign and moved into a third team berth along with such stars as Ron Marquette of Findlay's Mid-Ohio league champions, Jim Fenton of Akron, Dick Howard of Western Reserve, and Johnny Pazdzior of Toledo.

Naragon Eyes Catching Berth With Cleveland

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Hal Naragon, a 25-year-old former Marine from Barberton, Ohio, is making a strong bid to replace Jim Hegan as catcher for the Cleveland Indians.

Whether he can fill the shoes of the popular and seasoned Hegan probably won't be apparent before the regular season. But if his exhibition performance at Yuma yesterday against the Baltimore Orioles was any indication, he should be more than able to handle the batting chores.

The rookie belted three doubles in four times at bat as the Tribe went dow nto the Orioles, 9-8, when boosted his springtime batting average to .313. That's well above the lifetime averages of the other Cleveland catchers. Hegan has a mark of .231, Mickey Grasso .225 and Joe Ginsberg .253.

Naragon has taken more batting practice than any other man on the squad. It may win him a spot on the varsity.

Yesterday's exhibition was decided by Bobby Young's two-run homer in the eighth inning. Clint Courtney and Sam Mele also homered for Baltimore.

Mike Garcia took the worst punishment at the hands of the slugging Orioles, giving up seven runs on nine hits in the first two frames, including the homers by Courtney and Mele.

Lenten Meditations

This is one in a series of Lenten meditations prepared by the members of the Marion County Ministerial Association for publication in The Star

By REV. LYNN H. HARRIS
Pastor of Greenwood EUB Church

"I find in him no fault, but ye have a custom . . ."—John 18 38,39.

Pilate had a problem. He spoke without discernment of any degree His plight was great His mannerisms stunted the dignity of his position The milling mob was the motive The demands of the crowd called for opposite to right. Throngs doesn t always indicate correctness The majority rule is sometimes the very poorest standard by which to settle issues. There before the judge was the Presence of Perfection in knowledge, holiness, wisdom and mercy. The unsaved was to judge the One who came to serve him "But ye have a custom . . . ."

The crucial day was upon Pilate The monitor of his soul reminded his depraved mind that there was no fault to be found in this Man, yet the distortion and the twist of a mind crippled with its own sin backed by tradition seeks the cheap way across A bridge without a toll Religion without sacrifice is a usual parallel where an evasion of real issues are desired So men willingly and stupidly fall back on—"But ye have a custom . . . ." even when God speaks

PRAYER — Almighty God in whom is mercy and wisdom, we make our way to Thee through the Lord Jesus who is our new and living way of approach We pray that in these marked days that form the trail to the Cross that Thou wouldst strangely but move on our busy hearts Help us to wait in Thy Presence for Strength and direction and the midst of earthly demands Help, Father, that we may be rescued from any blindness that would cause a reversal in our lives Enforce the work of thy Spirit in very lives for Jesus sake Amen

Rhodes' Statement On GIS Costs Hit By Welfare Official

COLUMBUS Ohio (AP) — It costs the state about $1 830 per year to care for each inmate at the Girls Industrial School at Delaware, the state welfare department says

The department yesterday disputed figures released earlier by State Auditor James A Rhodes who said the cost was $3 513 per year for each girl

John C Waidner the department's business administration chief says the actual cost per inmate for the fiscal year which ended last June 30 was $1 839 He said it will be about $1 870 for the year ending this June

Waidner said the figures are in "striking contrast" to those released by Rhodes

Rhodes must have included appropriations and expenditures for capital investment such as new buildings in figuring his amount Waidner stated

Injury Plague Continues; Tigers' Harvey Kuenn Out

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Baseball's spring training season is little more than two weeks old but the list of injuries appears to be the longest in years—and still growing.

Although most of the attention has been centered on the serious injuries suffered by Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox and the Milwaukee Braves' Bobby Thomson, an Associated Press survey showed today that more than two dozen athletes have been damaged in one mishap or another. Hardly a club has escaped.

Three players were added to the injured roster yesterday.

Harvey Kuenn, the Detroit Tigers shortstop who won American League Rookie of the Year honors in 1953, suffered a badly bruised left wrist at Al Lang Field here when he threw up his arm to protect his head against a close pitch thrown by Harry Byrd of the New York Yankees. A few innings earlier the Yanks' Hank Bauer turned his ankle running out an infield grounder. Both will be out several days.

The injury epidemic here started Saturday when Thomson fractured his ankle sliding into second base. He'll be out two or three months.

The next day Bill Miller, Yankee left-hander, was hit on his pitching hand by a line drive for his second injury of the season. On Monday it was Ken Raffensberger, veteran Cincinnati Redlegs southpaw, who sprained his right ankle when he stepped on a loose ball in the outfield.

Also injured yesterday was center fielder Bill Bruton of Milwaukee, who also sprained his ankle after stepping into a hole in the outfield at Tampa. He hurt the same ankle March 7 sliding.

Jim Piersall of the Red Sox also has been injured twice. His latest came Monday when he bruised his hip crashing into a wall while going after a long fly.

Actually, the injury jinx got in its first licks even before Williams fractured his left collarbone after only 18 minutes of practice March 1, the official opening day of spring training.

The St. Louis Cardinals, running a pretraining session at Deland, Fla., so Manager Eddie Stanky could apprise his newcomers, thought twice about the project after two $100,000 purchases were injured. First, shortstop Alex Grammas strained a muscle in his throwing arm, then Tom Alston, a first base candidate, came up with a bad back.

Bob Porterfield of the Washington Senators was felled by a line drive Feb. 27 but suffered no ill effects.

Dick Kryhoski, Baltimore Orioles first baseman, was not so lucky when he was hit on the left wrist by a pitched ball against the New York Giants Monday. X-rays disclosed a fracture, which will keep him out of action four to six weeks.

Ed Fitzgerald, Washington catcher, was sidelined two weeks after a foul tip fractured the index finger of his right hand.

The Chicago White Sox got most of their misery March 11 when Jim Rivera bruised his chest and leg running into a wall, Carl Sawatski was hit by a pitched ball and Johnny Groth came down with appendicitus. The first two were idle only a few days, but Groth's sickness meant a month on the sidelines.

St. Mary Teams To Be Honored During Dinner

St. Mary High School athletes will be feted tonight at the annual St. Patrick's Day athletic awards banquet. It is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Hotel Harding ballroom.

Coach Ray Robbins will present football and basketball letter awards to Irish gridders and cagers. Main speaker will be Very Rev. William J. Spickerman V.F., pastor of St. Mary Catholic Church.

There will be Irish songs and following the dinner and program, a dance will be held from nine o'clock to midnight.

Hank Davis, who assisted Coach Robbins during the past football season, will be master of ceremonies.

The Irish football and basketball squads completed successfull seasons during the past year. St. Mary rolled to an 8-1 football record, along with it the first Mid-Ohio Conference title, and wound up a 15-8 basketball season, losing its second start in the district Class B cage tournament at Capital.

pushed in 24 the past season. Previous record was 19, set in the 1950-51 season by Harold Johnson of Toledo. Grand Rapids' Alfred Turner was credited with 40 assists this season to break his own league mark of 30 set during the 1950-51 season.

Johnstown's Don Hall won the IHL scoring title with his 110 points—coming on 43 goals and 67 assists—while Dick Pontarollo of Toledo came in second. He had 50 goals and 56 assists for 106 points.

Sandwiched in between Schultz and Vejprava in fourth spot was George Edwards of Troy who wound up with 95 points on 36 goals and 59 assists. Sixth was Arnie Schmautz of Johnstown with 39 goals and 50 assists for 89 points while he was trailed by Toledo's Roy Hammond with 35 goals and 53 assists for 88 points. Billy Goold of Cincinnati with 29 goals and 59 assists for 88 points and Ken Biggs of Cincinnati with 26 goals and 59 assists for 85 points.

Pontarollo of Toledo led the league in number of winning goals, nine, while Ed Montigny of Grand Rapids was in the penalty box more than any other IHL player during the past season. He spent 207 minutes there.

Johnson Faces Paul Andrews In TV Feature

CHICAGO (AP)—Harold Johnson of Philadelphia, top - ranking light heavyweight contender, is a 5-2 favorite tonight in his 10-round bout at Chicago Stadium with Paul Andrews.

Andrews, clever 24-year-old batter from Buffalo, is guided by Marshall Miles, former manager of Joe Louis, and has progressed to No. 9 rating among the 175-pound contenders for Archie Moore's crown.

The bout will be televised nationally at 10 p. m. EST, and will mark Andrews' first headline appearance in Chicago after five victories in preliminary action. He has scored 12 knockouts in winning 23 of 25 fights, but never has gone 10 rounds.

Johnson, 25, has been in the ring eight years as a pro and has piled up 47 victories in 52 bouts, including 22 knockouts. He comes from a fighting family—his father fought Jersey Joe Walcott and years later Harold, himself, met the former heavyweight king and absorbed the only kayo of his career.

Green Camp Hoop Team Whipped by Richwood

Green Camp K of P Lodge fell behind in the last half to absorb a 71-58 beating at the hands of the Richwood Athletic Club five last night at Richwood.

The losers held a 9-6 lead in the opening quarter and led 28-24 at intermission but Richwood went around Green Camp in the third period to take a 49-36 advantage and clinch the outcome.

With a previous 45-43 loss to Alexandria's Merchants at Galena in an open tournament, the Green Camp season record slumped to 8-10.

Regional Play To Open; Final Pairings Made

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The setting was complete today for 32 of the state's top high school basketball teams to tear down the home stretch in quest of the coveted state championships.

Pairings for three regional tournaments in northeastern Ohio were announced last night to line up the field in Class A and Class B for the anchor leg of the blistering tourney battles.

In the Kent tests, Akron Central (14-5) and Cuyahoga Falls (16-4) open the firing Friday at 8 p. m. Cleveland Cathedral Latin (16-4) and Kent Roosevelt (20-4) finish with a 9:30 p. m. contest.

Niles (23-0), one of the state's two Class A unbeaten clubs, faces strong Canton South (18-4) in one of the Canton regional games. Canton McKinley (18-3) and Bridgeport (14-9), meet in the opener.

Finals in both tournaments are set for Saturday night.

Oddly enough, no team from Canton or Cleveland ever won the Class A crown. Cleveland St. Ignatius was dropped in the 1953 semi-finals.

Canton McKinley's state tournament fortunes run along the "always a bridesmaid, never a bride" line. Four times—1928, '31, '40 and '43—McKinley struggled through to the finals and failed to win the big one. Bridgeport has been a state tourney visitor four times, but never got any farther than the semi-finals.

In pairings that set up the Class B field, the state's two remaining undefeated clubs are paired in one game and a former champion meets a team that never made the state tourney.

Vienna, proud of a 29-0 slate, meets Copley (23-0) in the opener at Youngstown Friday at 7:30 p. m. In the finale, Tuscarawas (22-2) is pitted against Columbiana (18-5), champions in 1947 and runner-up in 1945.

Fights Last Night

WASHINGTON — Holly Mims, 157½, Washington, stopped Sandy Baxter, 164½, New York, 2.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Doc Williams, 187½, Newark, N. J., outpointed Clint Bacon, 177¾, Death Valley, Calif., 10.

Wesley Methodist Cage Team Clinches Second Round Crown

Wesley Methodist captured the second round of the YMCA Church Basketball League last night at the Y by defeating Rural Salem 42-30.

Wesley's victory was its fifth straight of the second round. It will meet Trinity Baptist, winners of the first round in a championship playoff game on Thursday at 7 p.m. Winner of this game will play Saturday in the YMCA District Senior Church Tournament scheduled for the Marion YMCA. Two teams from Toledo, the Trinity EUB of Findlay and Marion's Church League winner will compete in a single elimination tourney to determine the Northwest District representative to the State tournament in Columbus on March 27. Drawings for the tournament will be held this afternoon at the YMCA.

Thursday's Church League playoff will be followed by a single game in the Y Invitational tournament at 8 between the Marion AC and Garvin's Sunoco of Bucyrus.

Two games are scheduled for tonight. At 7:30 Green Camp will meet the UAW-CIO and at 7:30, Sturgis Market of Kenton will face off with LaRue. Both contests are semi-final games.

In other games played last night, Epworth won its fourth game of the second round by defeating Calvary 58-42 and Trinity won a forfeit game over Church of the Brethren.

Coaches Study Foul Rules for College Games

By BEN PHLEGAR

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The men who teach basketball in the nation's colleges assemble here today and the No. 1 problem on their schedule is what to do about the rules of the game.

The three-day annual convention of the National Basketball Coaches' Assn. formally opens tomorrow. But there is a dinner tonight and most of the 250 coaches will be checking in by nightfall.

The coaches don't make the rules. They only make suggestions to the National Rules Committee. This body also has a meeting here this week-end starting Sunday.

Many of the coaches don't like the present rules on fouling and they are convinced the paying customers don't like them either.

At least two definite changes will be proposed, one by Eddie Hickey of St. Louis University, president of the association, and the other by Howard Hobson of Yale.

"There is too much intentional fouling, free throwing and stalling," Hobson said recently, "and the fans don't like the free throw and the freeze."

Jack Onslow, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, is a scout for the Boston Red Sox.

Temple Leads Cincinnati Club To 8-4 Victory

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Johnny Temple looks today like a good bet to start the season at second base for the Cincinnati Reds.

The tobacco-chewing southerner came up with two clutch singles and another hit as the Reds blasted the Philadelphia Phillies yesterday, 8-4, at Clearwater, Fla.

Temple, .24, also fielded well. But so did Rocky Bridges, another candidate for the second-base berth. Bridges, playing short in place of the injured Roy McMillan, initiated three double plays to keep the Phillies from rallying.

Joe Nuxhall started the game for the Reds and sent them ahead 3-2 in the fourth with a bases-empty homer. Bud Podbielan, the eventual winner, came in at the start of the sixth. Jim Greengrass, who hit 20 homers last season, smacked a three-run drive over the right field fence in the seventh. Earlier in the frame, fleet-footed Chuck Harmon slid home safely on a fielder's choice.

The third Red homer of the day, this one by .240 hitter Hobie Landrith, gave the Cincinnatians their eighth run.

Sleepy Hitchhiker Held At Wyandot County Jail

UPPER SANDUSKY — Held for investigation at Wyandot County jail here on a breaking and entering charge is Allen Porter, 24, of Chicago, Ill.

Porter was found asleep in a chair at 4 a.m. Tuesday in a service station operated by William Searfoss, eight miles west of here on Route 30-N.

The sleepy hitchhiker was discovered by a nearby resident who noticed outside lights turned on at the station, which is not normally open at that time. Taken into custody by sheriff's department officers, Porter said he was a native of Tennessee, now a resident of Chicago, and enroute by thumb to New York. He had entered the station by breaking a pane of glass in the door and reaching inside to unlock the door.

One of the outstanding safety features of the Ohio Turnpike is the 56-foot center strip separating the roadways.

Firemen Called Out To 3 Minor Blazes

Marion City firemen were called out three times in the past 24 hours

At 11 41 a m today firemen from Mark St and Central stations were summoned to the Albert Johnson residence at 906 N Prospect St where a defective oil heating stove caught fire and resulted in an estimated $50 damage Oil evidently accumulated in the bottom of the burner and then blazed over the stove scorching a rug Johnson had put the fire out with buckets of water when firemen arrived

There was no loss in a fire at 8 38 a m today at the shopping center construction project at the corner of Center and Oak Sts Sparks from a welding torch set fire to straw which acted as packing between rows of bricks Firemen from Central stations answered the call

At 1 23 p m Tuesday Central station firemen answered an alarm to the rear of 581 Bellefontaine Ave when some weeds caught fire from a nearby bonfire There was no loss

The same genius who figures out the width of football stadium seats must design the space between parking meters

What's Wrong with AUTO AUCTIONS

. . . not a thing—for out-of-town automobile dealers. Auction prices are bottom-dollar prices. But you can't buy at an auction. They're only for dealers. And anyway, you couldn't trade-in the car you're now driving.

No, auto auctions aren't for you . . . BUT AUCTION PRICES ARE! . . . at Short Ford for the rest of the week. Here's why:

We have 50 top quality A-1 used cars and trucks that we don't want to sacrifice to out-of-town dealers at the auction. It doesn't seem right. So through Saturday we're offering them right off our big lot at what we believe are auction prices . . . or lower.

Don't take our word for This. Come in and see our selection of fine used cars and trucks. tory reconditioning standards in all respects. And each one carries our 6 months or 6000-mile warranty. Need we say more?

We'll be looking for you! Remember, too, SHORT FORD pays for your new license on cars over $100 during March.

Did You Know

We don't understand even the simplest things about how television works, much less something really difficult, such as why the announcer who comes out to sell us a bar of soap has to start off by introducing herself by name as if we were old friends of her folks.

Although they never heard the program that it kids, the English are said to laugh uproariously at the "St. George And The Dragonet" record, and we hate to think how hilarious the joke would seem if they got the point.

It's all very well for the Internal Revenue Department to teach high-school students to make out income tax forms, but where are they to pick up the necessary vocabulary for muttering under their breaths?

At the age of 2½, a Wisconsin girl wins a prize in an art contest. Other parents could exhibit clever paintings by their own tots if there were any way to get the living-room wall to the museum.

French Actress Divorces Actor John Bromfield

SANTA MONICA Calif (AP)—Actor John Bromfield said she 'should take up sports instead of motherhood," French actress Corinne Calvet testified in obtaining a divorce from him

Bromfield didn't want any children she said yesterday, adding

The court awarded her alimony payments of 10 per cent of Bromfield's gross income if it totals more than $20 000 a year, her share of community property and restored her maiden name

The couple married in Boulder City, Nev., in 1948

Industrial Drop In Great Lakes Area Expected

CLEVELAND (AP)—A drop in industrial activity in the Great Lakes area was anticipated today in a second quarter forecast for railroad carloadings issued by the Great Lakes Regional Advisory Board.

According to the board's estimates, carloadings in the second quarter of this year will drop 13.6 per cent to 616,112 from 713,446 in the same period last year.

Declines in loadings are expected in 22 of the 32 major commodities customarily handled by railroads in the Great Lakes area, with the biggest drop—27.4 per cent — occurring in nonferrous metals.

The over-all decline would be the largest from a preceding corresponding quarter since the third quarter in 1946 when peacetime carloadings could be contrasted for the first time with wartime carloadings.

Besides nonferrous metals, declines of 20 per cent or more were predicted for four other commodity groups—iron ore and ore concentrates; gravel, sand and stone; brick and clay products; and iron and steel.

Dental Bill Money Taken; Teeth Used As Down Payment

CLEVELAND (AP)—It began when Mrs. Rose Hovan was robbed of $65.

Police recovered the money, but turned it over to the county prosecutor's office as evidence in the robber's trial. There were court delays, and Mrs. Hovan still doesn't have it.

She was going to use that money to pay the last $65 on her $265 dental bill, she said. But when she returned to the dentist for a readjustment he kept her lower set of teeth, she claimed.

The prosecutor's office told her to take her troubles to the chief police prosecutor, Bernard J. Conway. So yesterday he issued a summons requiring the dentist to come in and explain why he was holding the teeth.

Informed of the summons last night, the dentist commented he had read about the robbery, but felt Mrs. Hovan had had time to pay up.

Detroit Mayor Suspends 13 Policemen in Probe

DETROIT (AP)—Suspension of 13 Detroit policemen was announced today, Mayor Albert Cobo said the police department has movies of some of those suspended taking money from suspected numbers racket operators and acting as bet pickup men for them.

The mass suspension came as vice bureau officers raided three homes and arrested 28 men on gambling conspiracy charges. One of the homes was within five blocks of a police station.

Canton Couple Charged After Beating Son, 4

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—A Canton couple beat their 4-year-old son because they thought such treatment would improve the child's mental condition, police say.

Officers charged the pair with contributing to the neglect of a minor.

The boy, Roger Deal, is in poor condition in a Canton hospital suffering from malnutrition and a possible skull fracture. He had a rope around his neck when authorities took him from his home Monday night.

Police quoted the parents, Howard L. Deal, 31, and his wife, Ellen, 32, as saying the child was mentally retarded and they thought the "corrective treatment" would improve his condition.

Ex-Convict Found Guilty in Shooting

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) George Franklin Barton, 35, twice sentenced to life terms in the Kentucky penitentiary, was found guilty yesterday on a charge of shooting a Middletown bartender.

A jury convicted Barton and Judge P. P. Boli will pass sentence later.

The prosecution said Barton shot Clark Tingley, 33, with intent to kill, last Aug. 1. He fled the city and was caught in California Feb. 10.

Frank Schwab, assistant prosecutor, said Barton was sentenced to a life term in 1935 for armed robbery, serving eight years. In 1943 he was sentenced to another life term for a similar offense, serving eight more years.

Court Sets April 19 For Execution of Cincinnati Woman

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court today set April 19 as the execution date of Mrs. Betty Butler, 26, Cincinnati, for the murder of Mrs. Evelyn Clark, 32.

The court turned down Mrs. Butler's appeal from her first-degree murder conviction.

Now in Marysville Reformatory for Women, Mrs. Butler will be executed in Ohio Penitentiary's electric chair barring executive clemency.

Mrs. Clark was strangled and drowned in Sharon Lake woods near Cincinnati on Sept. 6, 1952, following a quarrel between the two women.

In a Perry County case, the court agreed to consider the appeal of Rudolph Elfrink from his second-degree murder conviction, in the fatal shooting of George Kilbarger on May 18, 1953, after a quarrel. Both were employes at the Aloysius Academy farm near New Lexington.

Who Are the Old Pros?

The resignation of Roger M. Kyes as Defense Secretary Wilson's right-hand man has caused some sober thought in Washington.

Kyes was a top executive with the best years of his future still before him when he went to Washington a little more than a year ago to help get the Eisenhower administration get started. He did what he was supposed to do.

But if his decision to get back into private enterprise proves to be the forerunner to a state of other decisions, it is going to be a question as to who will keep the administration going. Who are the old pros of government these days when each new administration brings in its own shock troops to get things started but is unable to keep them on hand for the long pull?

The Stimsons, Kellogs and Roots of the not-too-distant past are gone. The vindictiveness of politics makes it unlikely they will be succeeded by any of the younger men who occasionally flash across the Washington horizon, then quickly are burned up by the consuming fires of partisanship.

It always has been a convenient theory that everything about government could be done better by people who have had no experience in government. But the fact is, as every dollar-a-year man has learned, that getting things done in government is not the same as giving orders to underlings in private enterprise and firing the order-taker for non-performance of duty.

The old pros in government used to know the secret of getting along with representatives, senators and civil servants. They used to have the hang of working under directions laid down in laws and amplified by interpretations of laws. They knew the political ropes.

It takes years to acquire the know-how of public affairs, just as it takes years to acquire the know-how for running factories. If a few men like Roger M. Kyes were to learn as much about government as they know about factories and were to change occupations, there would be an immediate change for the better in Washington. But if the experts are available for government only on a limited-time basis, it can be taken for granted they will get limited results.

We Need More Happy Days

It is a matter of record that in all cities which celebrate St. Patrick's Day year in and year out there is a visible and beneficial effect.

When the Kellys, Boylans and Dolans clench their clay pipes in their teeth and go marching, as they do in New York City, for instance, the Millers, Smiths, Jones, Wallaces, Swarizes, Novellis, Shumanskys, Steins and Duncans share in the celebration.

Moreover, before it's over, nearly everybody else has had a share in it. The entire community feels better. Not only is there a measurable improvement in good will and good feeling. There is a measurable pickup in the rate of business turnover.

In New York City this year, department-store promotions in connection with Washington's birthday proved to be so successful the police department had to take charge of the crowds. People will respond readily to the stimulation of special occasions other than Christmas, Easter and patriotic hilidays.

To the Murphys, the O'Rourkes and the Cudahys — the top of St. Patrick's blessed day! And the same to the Burnses, Alvarees, Kirks, Pesaks, Skolniks, Rozlosniks and Shultzes. St. Patrick loved everybody, starting with the Irish.

It's Not the Money

Additional evidence that the United States could become the victim of pernicious inferiority among its public servant unless it attracts first-raters is to be found in a recent statement by George F. Kennan, former career diplomat who rose to ambassador rank when he represented the United States in Moscow in 1952.

Kennan advised Princeton undergraduates not to consider diplomatic careers, as he had done when he was a Princeton undergraduate in the early twenties. He pointed out that under existing circumstances a career diplomat does not know when he may be hounded by security investigators, when he may be shunted aside in favor of some political wonder boy who needs an appointment, when he may be snatched out of his diplomatic status and put into uniform and when he may get lost in the suffle and never be heard of again.

Since no one goes into government employment for the money that's in it, unless he estimates he can do no better in private employment, Kennan told the Princeton undergraduates he cannot "in good conscience take the responsibility of encouraging any young man to attempt to enter the foreign service at the bottom and make a career of it."

Kennan tried to make a career of it. He retired a year ago next month under pressure from sources convinced he must be tained with Communism because he had made himself the State Department's foremost "expert" on the Soviet Union.

Confidence or Calamity

By David Lawrence

Action on Taxes Will Determine Fate of Nation

To pit class against class and to picture as enemies of the workingman the businessmen of the country whose genius of organization and creative ability has made millions of jobs and an expanding economy is the basic purpose of Communist propaganda in America. Unhappily it is also the coincident objective today of the Democratic party's leadership when it seeks, for partisan purposes, to wreck the national economy by forcing, if it can, a budget that will be unbalanced by eight to ten billion dollars a year.

This is the real issue which has arisen in Congress as a consequence of a drive to win votes by removing many millions of persons from the tax rolls and at the same time choking the expansion of American business by defeating proposals that would stimulate capital investment.

This could only result in a serious depression, a drastic curtailment of the American dollar's purchasing power, and a grave threat to private capitalism.

President Eisenhower's address was mild in tone, but it made a persuasive argument against the raid on the treasury which has been begun by the Democrats, aided by some politically timed Republicans.

FOR MANY YEARS now national socialism, whether in Nazi Germany or in Communist Russia, has condemned the American system of private capitalism. Nowhere in the world, however, has there been such a high standard of living and such high wages as the American workingman enjoys under the private-capital system.

There was a time when the American Federation of Labor was active in defense of the private-enterprise system but, needled in recent years by the CIO — which at one time had a majority of its executive board from communist-controlled unions — the AFL, like the CIO, has sponsored a steady propaganda against the private-enterprise system. Both major labor organizations now present on national radio networks regularly a vicious propaganda of division and disunity.

Private capitalism stands today at the crossroads in Congress. The Eisenhower administration came into power with the hope of undoing the insidious damage done by the "left wingers" of the New Deal and Fair Deal—those who believed in huge financial deficits for the treasury and in tax rates that have penalized the successful and the thrifty.

UNDER THE GUISE of "liberalism," many of these radical socialists have fought the Eisenhower administration, using frequently such terms as "millionaire administration" and a "rich man's cabinet"—all for the purpose of awakening bitter resentments among the people and creating a bitter feeling of class against class.

It is even looked upon as a sin to invite into government men who have been successful in business.

The Democratic party has had for years many defenders of the private - enterprise system. Men like Sen. George have stood in the forefront of the battle to keep the radical socialists from accomplishing their programs of confiscation. So today there is deep regret among conservatives in both parties that, for some strange reason, so highly respected a man as the Georgia senator should allow himself to be persuaded to fall for the radical-socialist game.

To play politics is not the habit of Sen. George. Nor is it the habit of many others of deep conviction who have fought socialism and radicalism. The South is supposed to be the last citadel of anti-radicalism in America. When Sen. George surrenders to political expediency or the blandishments of a partisan leadership, it is time for genuine concern.

The President may not get a majority in Congress for his tax bill if enough Republicans desert him and join with the Democrats. There has been a lot of talk lately about the necessity for an assertion of leadership by the President over the Republican party.

IT WILL BE interesting to see whether the "left wingers" will be calling on the President to reprove those of his own party who desert him on the tax bill.

The core of the controversy over taxes is whether or not the personal exemption, which is now at $600, shall be increased to $700—thus saving less than a dollar a week in taxes, and also relieving many millions of citizens from the payment of any income taxes at all.

If the exemption is adopted by Congress, the whole job-creating plan of the administration—designed to ward off depression and encourage business expansion — will be imperiled and the treasury will lose $2,500,000,000 in revenue besides. Sen. George wants the exemption to go even higher, to a point where the President says it would cost the treasury 8 billion dollars.

It is supposed to be politically popular in a year of congressional elections to vote to increase exemptions from taxes but, if it produces economic chaos and starts the nation on the road to public bankruptcy, it is difficult to see how the wrecking crew itself can escape punishment at the polls.

The outcome of the vote in Congress on this issue will strengthen or shake public confidence, depending on whether common sense or demagoguery is triumphant.

It will go far toward answering the question of whether in the coming decade, a large-scale confiscation of private property can be avoided and America saved from left - wing radicalism — the twin brother of communist socialism.

How Sad Can You Get?

'Quickie Trials' Bypass Brainwashing

By David Barnett

When the Communists are in a hurry, they can announce "confessions" by American fliers without going through the "brainwashing" routine. They just hold a secret trial and make up some guilty pleas.

A Marine Department report on its investigation into the "trial" of four U.S. airmen forced down in Hungary reveals the details of the "quick" method.

The Airmen, Capts. Dave H. Henderson and John J. Swift and Sgts. Jess A. Duff and James A. Elam, were forced by a Soviet fighter to land their C-47 in Hungary Nov. 19, 1951. The United States has sued in the International Court of Justice for $637,894.11, and interest, from the Soviet and Hungarian goverments as a result of the case.

THIS IS WHAT happened at the "trial" of the airmen, as told in the State Department report:

At 8 a.m., Dec. 23, 1951, the airmen were taken to the civil district court building in Budapest. They had been given no prior warning that they were to be charged with any crime or placed on trial.

One at a time, the men were marched to a person in military uniform who called himself the military prosecutor of Budapest. Each airman was informed that he was under arrest for violating the Hungarian border. He was told to sign a statement prepared in Hungarian — a language none of the men understood — that allegedly stated the men understood the charges.

Informed specifically that there was no admission by such signature that the crosing of the frontier had been in any way premediated, three of the men signed. The fourth refused.

The military prosecutor handed each of the men a list of eight names. He told them there were the names of the only persons entitled to practice before the court.

The names meant nothing to the accused. Each airman either pointed at a name — any name — on the list, or the prosecutor picked one for him.

APPROXIMATELY five minutes after the so-called defense lawyers had been introduced to their "clients" the airmen were marched into the courtroom. No observers were present.

The proceedings were conducted in Hungarian. One interpreter purported to give the airmen a running, oral summary of what was being said. The interpreter, a paid employe of the secret police, "translated" statements both for the court and for the accused.

The only evidence submitted in open court were answers of the airmen to questions put by the presiding officer. Including translation time, this questioning took about 20 minutes.

The State Department notes:

"No question asked or answer given was incriminating to any of the accused, and no testimony or other evidence was adduced, read or offered which would support any finding or charge of the guilt of any defendant . . ." of any crime.

Seven hours later the court ruled that the men had been found guilty of premeditated crossing of the Hungarian frontier. On December 23, the Hungarian government declared that the men had admitted their guilt. The State Department report says the American nationals were not even asked during the trial whether or not they were guilty of such a charge.

THE HUNGARIAN declaration said the men could not explain satisfactorily "Why they had necessity for a radio station suitable for field use." The report states the men were not asked to explain the set at the trial but merely whether there was such a set in the plane. The set was a standard emergency unit that sends out SOS signals when cranked.

According to the Hungarians blankets on board the plane "had been prepared for dropping." The only evidence produced at the trial was that the blankets were presumably part of the cargo, so shown in the manifests, for delivery to the American air attache at Belgrade. The Red document said the crew "wanted to drop these items to propagandists and diversionists."

According to the Hungarian declaration, the airmen "admitted that they knew they were flying in the air space of the Hungarian Republic." No such statement was made at the trial, the State Department report says, and the airmen specifically told Hungarian and Soviet authorities before the trial that they at all times had believed they had been flying over Yugoslavia.

THE SOVIET satellite said the men had acquiesced in the verdict and "did not avail themselves of the right of appeal." According to the State Department, "The men were left under the definite impresion that they had in fact appealed through the actions of the lawyers" and that the appeal would be decided in three days. The accused were never told what, if anything, happened to the appeal.

The men were fined $123,605.15, which the United States paid under protest to obtain their release.

Declarations of the Hungarian authorities on the case were put on the Communist propaganda transmission belt, but the Reds apparently were aware that these broadcasts were not as effective as would be a transcribed "confession" from one of the men. The report states that Capt. Henderson "was subject to further interrogation" after the trial and even after arrangements had been made for the payment of the "ransom."

Things Were Pretty Quiet

By TRUMAN TWILL

There were many things our home town didn't have. It was pretty quiet.

It wasn't until we were half grown that they scraped up enough money to buy a blue coat to go with the policeman's cap that set apart our strong arm of the law from the common herd.

There was no vice problem. Vice didn't pay. When the boys wanted to be ornery they went to the nearest city, large enough to boast all the advantages.

We didn't have a zoo because the people next door had a horse and the people across the street kept cows. There were animals everywhere. As for wild ones, the circus put my home town on its itinerary every second year.

There was no traffic problem. Things used to get pretty thick on Saturday nights, with horse rigs standing at all the hitching posts downtown and automobiles standing on side streets and in back alleys. But nothing made the merchants so happy as to see a big crowd downtown; no one minded the confusion.

No one worried about slums. There were some people down by the tracks who didn't live in very good houses, but they weren't very good people. No one was forcing them to live there.

Corruption was unheard of, not because of anybody's exceptional honesty but because there wasn't enough cheese in the trap to tempt the rats to risk their necks to get at it.

Everybody burned coal but there wasn't any smoke menace, apparently because the wind from the west blew straight through the town to the east and the smoke was all carried out to the country before anyone had a chance to object to it.

No one ever got arrested for anything. Chronic offenders against law and order were known for what they were and handled accordingly. If anyone needed help, he was put away in a safe place until he didn't need it any more, or until someone came to get him.

There was no juvenile delinquency worth the trouble to try to stop it. Kids stole apples, grapes and melons until they outgrew it. They went into the pool room occasionally if they were boys, and most of them learned to use tobacco amd maybe lo slurp a little licker. Some turned out to be elders in the church and some were backsliders, but not because of anything they did as kids.

Politics was an orderly, logical process which never hottened up much, except during presidential campaigns and then not for long. It was understood that the choice places at the trough belonged to the majority party and the other party got along on what was left, which wasn't much but was better than nothing.

City beautification and progress were the responsibility of individuals, who did nothing, or a great deal, or a medium amount about them, depending on how they felt. Most of them felt all right.

We had our scandals and squabbles, our feudings and fussings, but these always turned out to be of manageable proportions. We were not progressive in my home town—we lacked many advantages—but we got along remarkably well without any organized crime, systematic exploitations of human weaknesses, one-way streets, no-parking signs, or high-priced government.

Daily Bible Thought

Some have spoken of the harmony of the spheres. This is a poetical picture of the infinite joy of the harmonious universe We can introduce a note of discord to mar this harmony. "The morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy."—Job 12.8.

Here's One Inflation Trend

By MARK DANA

Whether it is a recession or a disrupted supply-and-demand or an upsurge of a feminist zeal, the price of brides in Nigeria is mounting dreadfully, and maybe there ought to be a law about this, too.

Fathers of the African country are demanding a lot more beads, knives, ivory tusks and such valuable objects for their daughters, and Nigerian men who can afford only two or three wives at present rates are in distress. Some fond fathers auction off their daughters to the highest bidders, thus upsetting the normal economy.

Crop control may prove difficult but there are pleas for at least price pegs, downward of course. No doubt the Nigeria belles would have it that way, because there is such a thing as too-high evaluation which scares away all applicants.

A woman member of the Nigerian Assembly which dutifully is taking on this big problem of public welfare resents the way her legislative colleagues are blandly discussing the issue. "The phrase 'bride price' is a shame to women," she murmurs. "It puts us on a level with salt, pepper, goats and other commodities. Why can't we use a word like 'dowry'?"

A thought is there, and it is such dissembling, such euphemisms, such artifices which make the whole business of marriage fascinating even outside Africa. It should be "dowry of course, and gorss indeed is any prospective suitor who gives a thought to a girls job, bank account or the likely generosity of her Dad before offering to share his own resources, be they a palace or a grass hut in the jungle.

In fact it might be jungle justice if some Nigerian Papas put their prices (pardon us, reverse dowries; so high they have to keep their daughters until they are quite old, say 25 or so.

Little Blitzed Schoolhouse

"Vandalism in public schools, attacks on teachers and increasing juvenile crime are disturbing the nation."—(News item)

Don't raise your hand to kiddies—
All harshness put aside
Should acts like vandalism
Appear their joy and pride!
If Willie socks his teacher
And Jennie gives applause,
It should not be disturbing
To fathers and to "maws."

II

A schoolroom gets a blitzing,
With real house-wreckers' art;
What if the plumbing's damaged
And school desks torn apart?
No harsh remarks from mother!...
Let father smile and say,
"It's merely self-expression:
The kids must have their way!

III

Are switchblade knives a feature
Of play-yard life? Who cares?
(The people who resent it
Must be a lot of "squares")
Should teacher show displeasure
Against the smallfry cute
It might affect their future,
And cramp their style to boot!

IV

The kiddies must develop:
Their acts we must condone,
For character's important
And must be let alone!
(A strap! A rod! A paddle!
Outrageous! Brutal! Grim! ..
"He merely slugged the teacher
For EDUCATING him")

V

Oh, don't be stern with children—
They're "growing up" you know;
Life's habits they are forming
And green lights help them so!
If they behave like hoodlums
Let punishment be stayed!
They must not grow up thinking
THAT LAWS SHOULD BE OBEYED!

Moscow now announces that a Russian, Ivan I. Polsonov, invented the steam engine. This absorbs James Watt and definitely establishes Casey Jones as a satellite. . . "You got another popper on the Minsk-Pinsk line." . . Up to now we had thought Russia merely discovered the upper berth and invented dining-car fried chicken. . .

James Watt, you're done, you're through!
The Soviet has abolished you;
You heard no whistle and no bell. . .
Choo-choo! (In Russian) Boy, farewell!

President Eisenhower, it seems, likes to cook barbecue style. There must be something in this that Adlai Stevenson can criticize.

Target Practice

The 10-year-old has decided that he can't win. If the report from school shows him deficient in courtesy, cooperation and helpfulness, he catches the dickens. And if it shows him superior in these items his father wants to know why he doesn't act that way around home.

May Take 10 Days To Get Organized

Army-McCarthy Probe Facing Delay

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Who's lying?

Finding the answer will be the main task of the Senate subcommittee which investigates the fight between the Army on one side and Sen McCarthy and Roy Cohn chief counsel of his investigations subcommittee on the other

But whether the committee ever agrees on the answer may turn out to be as interesting as the investigation itself The seven man group has four Republicans including McCarthy, and three Democrats

Since the Wisconsin Republican says he will testify under oath that means all the witnesses—including no doubt, Cohn Army Secretary Robert T Stevens and John Adams, the Army's chief counsel—must also swear to tell the truth

COMMITTEE AGREEMENT that a witness was lying would be the first step toward prosecution by the Justice Department and a jail term if the witness were convicted in federal court of perjury

The dispute revolves around Army Pvt G David Schine, son of a wealthy hotel family and unpaid worker on McCarthy's staff until he was drafted

1 The Army says McCarthy and Cohn interceded to get Schine a commission before he was drafted and afterwards tried to pressure the Army into giving him special treatment McCarthy and Cohn deny this.

2 McCarthy says the Army tried to 'blackmail' him into giving up his investigation of communism in the Army and produced memoranda charging the Army was holding Schine hostage to make McCarthy lay off Stevens and Adams deny this

McCARTHY NOW says he will not only testify under oath but will let Army witnesses or their lawyer cross-examine him This couldn't happen under the committee's present rules without McCarthy's agreement

But since he will be taking part in the investigation of himself and the Army as a member of the committee he will be able unless the rules are further changed to wear two hats in the investigation an extraordinary sight in the Capitol

1 He'll testify as a witness and stand cross examination

2 Then he will get up from the witness chair walk around to his committee chair and cross examine those who testify against him

If Cohn acts as McCarthy's attorney in the hearing the two men can sit together and advise with one another while McCarthy is being cross examined

BUT COHN WON'T be able to play his usual role in the hearings of this committee As its chief counsel he did most of the routine questioning of witnesses

He said last Sunday he had learned that one of the committee's staff members had gone around to the other staff employes asking them to sign a pledge of loyalty to Cohn The counsel said he had nothing to do with the

If there had been no other reasons this alone would have made it impossible for the committee's regular staff to work on this investigation It will be their job to get information together some of it to be used in the case of Cohn and question witnesses on what their testimony will be

So the committee yesterday decided to make Cohn step aside for this investigation and the whole staff too Another chief counsel and a new staff will be hired for this one investigation

Some committee members expressed hope yesterday the investigation could begin late next week not only in public but before television cameras This seems unlikely

First the staff will have to be assembled evidence and information gathered and some prospective witnesses questioned before the hearing opens Late next week may be too soon for that

Baker's First Wife Rapped in Marriage Suit

Lawyer for Benny's Son-in-Law Calls for Protection by Court

NEW YORK (AP)—The first wife of Jack Benny's new son-in-law has been accused of trying to extract money from him through the courts and newspapers.

The attorney for stock broker Seth H. Baker, 26, made this claim in asking that reporters be barred from court to protect Baker and his new wife, the former Joan Benny, 19

The request came yesterday during a hearing in which Joan Scott Baker, 21, sought to invalidate a Virgin Islands divorce from Baker and instead get a legal separation and support.

Couple on Honeymoon

Baker, who married Miss Benny last week in a lavish $50,000 Hollywood wedding, is now honeymooning in Hawaii

His lawyer, Harold S Lazar, told State Supreme Court Justice Morris Eder that Joan Scott Baker brought the action 'because she wants to use the newspapers to exact a sum of money from him"

Lazar asked that reporters be barred and papers in the case be impounded. He continued,

"One reason we seek to seal these papers is that Joan Benny is an innocent party in this matter She . . . may be injured by the publicity. Mr Baker is a stock broker and he can be damaged also"

Request Turned Down

Eder turned him down, saying

'I am a firm believer in hearing matters in open court unless there is something that will injure public morals . . . There is nothing here to arouse public prejudice."

Joan Scott Baker's lawyer, David J Landau, denied any shakedown attempt and added· "There is nothing lascivious or scandalous about this matter"

Landau said his client, a blonde model, married Baker in Florence, S C, July 19, 1951, while he was an Army private. They kept the wedding secret from his family, Landau said,

When Baker's father found out about the marriage, Landau continued, he put economic pressure on his son and a Virgin Islands divorce was obtained Jan 13, 1953

However, Landau continued, the two lived together for nearly 12 months after the divorce or shortly before Baker met Miss Benny on New Year's Day, 1954

Bucyrus Parolee Sentenced to Ohio State Penitentiary

BUCYRUS — Noel Lawrence Nagel, 38, of Bucyrus, was sentenced Tuesday to the Ohio State Penitentiary for an indeterminate period on a non-support charge by Common Pleas Judge John C Carroll

Nagel was recently indicted by the Crawford County grand jury on charges of non-support, to which he entered a plea of not guilty. He changed his plea Tuesday morning to guilty and was sentenced to the state penitentiary.

Nagel, now in Crawford County jail, is also wanted in Ashland County for suspicion of forgery and by state authorities for parole violation.

Nagel was sentenced to the state penitentiary for forgery in 1948 and was later paroled. On two occasions since that time he has been before the Crawford County court for non-support.

Agreement Awaits Signatures

Survey for New Pike Set By Highway Department

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state highway department today awaited only signatures on agreements with engineering consultants before embarking on the first step toward building the Cincinnati-to-Conneaut turnpike

The department is awaiting answers on letters of agreement sent March 12 to two engineering firms selected to make the preliminary studies on the toll road

Return of the agreements signed by the consultants and then countersigned by S O. Linzell, state highway director, will mark the first task in determining the feasibility of building the state's second toll road, Toll road No 1 across the northern part of the state is under construction

The department has accepted the proposals of the J E Greiner Co of Baltimore, and Coverdale and Colpitts of New York, engineering consultants The Greiner Co agreed to do the preliminary engineering study for $48,000 This includes work on the entire Cincinnati-to Conneaut route plus the spur to Toledo, totaling some 390 miles

In a previous proposal including an additional spur to the Pennsylvania Turnpike the Baltimore firm quoted $60,000.

The traffic and revenue study will be done by Coverdale and Colpitts for $85,000 Its previous proposal, which included the Pennsylvania turnpike spur, was $93,000

The present proposals, without the Pennsylvania Turnpike spur, total $133,500 and that comes within the $135,000 limit set by the control board for the preliminary study.

These studies are to be integrated and are to be completed within 160 days, after which the highway department will present reports to the control board

Should the control board approve additional studies, including the Pennsylvania Turnpike spur, the engineering firms are to be notified by Oct 1 1954 and the second phase of the preliminary study will be completed by March 1, 1955

Final decision to go ahead with the Cincinnati - Conneaut turnpike will rest with the Ohio Legislature
